PEACE RETURNS TO BOARD

ESTIMATE $2 TAX RATE FOR COUNTY

Supervisors Cut Nine Per Cent Of Requests

A $2 county tax rate for the 1951-52 fiscal year was estimated by County Manager E. R. Stallings this week following the Board of Supervisors' $1,129,2$6 cut of the budget requests for the new fiscal year Friday.

After a week-long conference with Stallings and the county department heads, the board slashed nine per cent of the amount requested.

The six per cent across-the-board pay raise granted for next year to all county employees, however, is not included in the cut. The salary increase will add about $210,000 to the totals released this week.

46 Per Cent Increase

The preliminary budget totals $12,401,385. Although it is nine per cent drop from the $13,530,-591.15 requested by the department heads, it is an increase of 4.6 per cent of the current year's budget.

The supervisors will pass a salary ordinance along with the salary budget. The ordinance will set up the number and class of jobs in each county department. Public hearings on the combined budget will begin June 11.

According to Stallings, the combined tax rate should approximate $2 per $100 valuation, an increase of eight cents over the current tax rate.

The sheriff's office and the health and welfare department were hit the hardest by the cut. The largest reduction—$227,140—was in social welfare.

No Jail Farm

Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore's proposed $150,000 jail farm fell by the wayside as did 28 of the 47 new jobs he asked for his office.

Of the 19 new jobs allowed, 12 are ambulance crewmen being transferred from the health department, so actually the office gets only seven new positions.

According to Stallings, the supervisors set up a county building fund reserve in which $700,000 is allocated for courthouse construction, a $200,000 increase, and $250,000 for jail construction, the same amount as in the current budget.

Capital Projects Fund

Totaling $73,000, a new capital projects fund was set up. In it the board allocated $550,000 for a health and welfare center at the Community Hospital site; $140,000 for a central county fire station to be built near the juvenile hall west of Belmont; $25,000 for a contagious disease unit at Community

Five Day Watch "Bags" Miller

Although described as "armed and dangerous" Roy Allen Miller, 21-year-old suspected holdup man surrendered here Monday evening without so much as a curse.

Miller, the brother of Bob Miller recently sent to San Quentin for armed robbery in this county, is the alleged member of a gang which has committed a series of holdups and burglaries in San Francisco and Oakland.

To capture Miller police kept a local home under scrutiny for five days. Chief of Police W. W. Sunderland set up the 24 hour watch after he learned that Miller, a San Francisco resident, sometimes visited the Daly City home.

Police nabbed Miller as he started to enter the local house.

Youth Admits Coastside Holdup

A 15-year-old Miami, Fla., youth admitted last Thursday the robbing of a San Francisco couple parked at a secluded spot on Thornton's Beach early Wednesday morning.

The confession by the youth followed his arrest by Officer Arthur Linehareson a tip from an Edgemar restaurant operator.

He was arrested as he climbed from a car in which he had been given a ride at Skyline Boulevard and highway No. 1. He had been followed by Roy A. Jones, operator of the Jonesburger at Edgemar, whose wife had phoned police she had seen the boy getting into the car.

When he was apprehended, the youth had a loaded .25 caliber Italian pistol in his pocket. He admitted the robbery and later was identified by Miss Elizabeth Stickel of San Francisco, who was with Robert Hermansen, also of San Francisco, when he was robbed of $30.

Mrs. Jones identified the boy from a description put out by the Daly City Police, after he had appeared in the Edgemar Restaurant Monday and Tuesday night. He had been hitching rides along the Oceanshore Highway.

The youth said he had been staying in the Keystone hotel in San Francisco.

PROBLEMS APPEAR TO BE RESOLVED BY BOARD MEMBERS

Six Teachers Leave District; New Holiday Set

Previous to the debate over school board policies at the regular meeting of the Jefferson Elementary School board last Monday, regular business was conducted.

This included the board's approval of the resignation of six teachers. Superintendent James Snell said the majority of teachers were leaving for higher paying jobs. They include: Mrs. Dora Barker, Erle Johnson, Virginia Doney, Vernon Freshy, Sergie Gregoriev and Miss June Gross.

New Street

The connecting street problem also came under discussion when Charles Becker, Westlake attorney, told the school board that the county planning commission apparently now favored the connecting street approved by the board. He asked the board to draw up the necessary papers for the calling of a public hearing and dedicating the right-of-way to the county.

No date has been set yet for the public hearing, but it is expected several Broadmoor residents will object to the street. Should more than one-third of the audience present at the hearing be opposed to the street plan, it will have to be submitted to County Superintendent of Schools Tormey for his decision.

New Holiday

In adopting the school calendar for next year, the board added Columbus Day as a holiday. This was done in conjunction with San Francisco schools which for many years have recognized the holiday.

Of note to taxpayers was the proposal by the board of a special election to raise the salaries of teachers in the district. However, before the proposal is submitted it first is to be approved by the Classroom Teachers Association. Further details are expected to come out at the regular meeting of the board next month.

Two Jeff Seniors Win Cash Awards

Two Jefferson High School senior girls have won their share of $7,600 in cash prizes given by the Bank of America.

Winners of the Achievement Awards for the Bay Area are: Kathleen Johnston, vocational arts, $250; Patricia Austring, fine arts, $100.

These awards and 20 others, ranging from $500 to $50 were presented by Fred A. Ferroggiaro, senior vice chairman of the bank's board of directors. More than 700 guests attended the Friday ceremonies at the St. Francis Hotel.

The awardees were picked by a seven-man board of educators and civic leaders chairmaned by Watt A. Long, associate superintendent of San Francisco public schools. All students participating in the final selections had previously been chosen in local high schol events and zone judging.

Recall Petition Killed; Mrs. Cheatham Is Expected To Drop Libel Suit

All was quiet on the Jefferson Elementary School board front today.

The relative peace was declared at a meeting of the board last Thursday evening at which some 130 residents were present. It was the biggest turnout of citizens at a school board meeting in the past three years.

James Snell, superintendent of schools, around whom the furor centered, was quick to tell the large audience that he would take no part in a school board fight.

Big Turnout

When the superintendent gave up his job two weeks ago, charges and counter charges were hurled at the school board. Generally speaking, local residents wished to retain Snell and blamed members of the board for his resignation. It was felt by many citizens that certain members of the board forced Snell to quit.

Asked point blank why he was leaving the Jefferson Elementary School District, Snell replied: Hospital; and $15,000 for a county animal shelter.

The department heads have asked for $3,910,579 in salaries, but this fund will be trimmed by the number of jobs deleted, Stallings explained. The six per cent salary boost will be added later.

Stallings gave the following changes made in the major departments:

Health-Welfare Department

Health Division—Reduced from $374,983 to $353,920, a cut of $21,-$63.

Canyon Sanatorium — Cut $23,058 from $325,589 to $302,540, by the disallowance of five new requested positions.

Crystal Springs Home — Cut $3,789 by deleting two positions.

Community Hospital—Trimmed $115,012 from $1,296,104 to $1,181,-012. Of this savings, $54,000 is by transfer of the ambulance service to the sheriff's office and some of the rest by the deletion of eight new jobs. Stallings said that the hospital funds demands are up $95,000 over last year, due to increased costs.

Social Welfare—Trimmed $277,-140, from $5,035,451 to $4,758,311. Of the reduction, $57,000 is in general welfare; $54,000 in old age assistance; $87,890 in aid to needy children; $17,588 in blind aid, and $42,322 in supplenmentary aid to nursing home. Stallings said that while social welfare totals are up

SCHOOL BOARD COMMITTEE FORMED

Reader Calls On Residents To Serve

May 28, 1951

To the Editor:

With the cooperation of The Record, May I expand certain remarks I made at the last meeting of the Trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District and offer a plan for public consideration which seems useful to some of my friends and acquaintances.

When I suggested a citizens' committee be formed to work with the Board, I had no specific plan in mind beyond organizing public interest in the school district. Now I feel able to give the aimless good intentions a more practical form.

Certain Desires

I believe that most people present at the meeting last Thursday share certain desires. They wanted to know why our superintendent and his assistant have resigned. They wanted to know what they could do to insure a future for this schol district free from disrupting tensions. Although it may have seemed at times that some of those present were trying to explain the resignations in terms of the actions of one or another of the trustees, the significance of the discussion lay, I think, in the need for better understanding of the work the Board is to do, of the relationship between the Board and its administrators, of the function of the administrators — for better understanding, in short, of the privileges and responsibilities of all the elements in our school district including the citizens.

Even the Trustees, it seemed to me, felt upon occasion the need for greater insight into their duties. Certain procedures of the meeting indicate that neither the board nor the citizens realize fully the implications of our recent rapid growth. We still act like a small town school district in many ways, in spite of our excellent program to develop the physical properties of the school. Certain degrees of formality are necessary to protect the professional status of both

LIBRARY BOARD CREATED BY CITY

Council Also Extends Knowles and Brunswick

A five man library commission to advise the city on library affairs was created by ordinance at the regular meeting of the city council Monday evening.

The commission will study plans for library improvement. Later this month the council is expected to name the members of the commission.

Another important move was the adoption of plans and specifications for the extension of two streets in Daly City. Bids will be opened June 25 for the extension of Knowles avenue and Brunswick street. Knowles will give Westlake residents a direct route to Daly City.

Brunswick street will extend through the H. H. Smith quarry and connect Wellington avenue with Hillside boulevard. The exact amount the city will have to pay Smith for the quarry property has not yet been determined, as Smith is still appealing a previous judgment.

In other action Monday the council:

1. Rezoned the northwest corner of Skyline boulevard and the Coast Highway to a commercial district.

2. Adopted the Permanente Health plan for city employes. The plan, to go into operation on July 1, is in conjunction with a 6 per cent pay increase for all city employes.

3. Called for bids June 11 for the grading and paving of Edgewood park. Also authorized payment of $1,765 to Charles T. Cunningham for concrete work at the same park.

4. Approved two new stop signs at the intersection of Mayfair and Plaza Drive in Westlake.

Intruders Almost Blow Up Local Church

Vandals came close to meeting their God ahead of schedule Monday night when they invaded two churches.

Police report that at the Grace Nazarene church the "invaders" turned on a gascock which allowed fumes to go through the building. In another room was a lighted heater. Police discovered the entrance about 10 o'clock. They claim if they had come an hour later the church would have been the center of an explosion.

The same evening intruders entered the Assembly of God church at 1006 Hanover.

Both churches were entered by forcing windows. Nothing was taken from either edifice, police report.

Westlake Improvement Assn. Meet Monday

All Westlake residents today were invited to attend a meeting of the Westlake Improvement Association at Jefferson High school Monday evening, June 4.

The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

Under the direction of President Dr. George Gibson, Westlake Association officials will discuss various problems of that district's residents.

JEFFS TAKE OPENER WITH ONE HIT AFFAIR

Donley On Mound For Indians Friday

Jefferson High seeks its second straight PAL baseball crown Friday at 3:15 p. m. when it battles San Mateo High on the Daly City diamond.

The Mateans enter the contest with their backs to the wall, dropping the first game of the best two out of three series Tuesday.

Donley To Hurl

Glenn South will send Charlie Donley to the mound for the Indians, and Dan Lacy will counter with Marv Lanson for the Bearcats. On given days both have seemed unbeatable on the hill, but neither are consistent.

If San Mateo wins, the deciding game will be played there Saturday.

The Indians got the jump in the series, winning 3-0 behind the brilliant one-hit pitching of Ed Cereghino. Only a questionable scratch hit in the sixth frame kept Cereghino from a no-hitter.

Questionable Hit

The blow in question was a drive to the right of Cereghino who got his glove on it, but did not hold it. Shortstop Leo Gianecchini charged in but could not nip the runner, Ron Venturelli, at first.

San Mateo, being the home team, scored it as a hit, but had the game been played at Jefferson it probably would have been chalked up as an error.

Venturelli was erased on a double play when catcher Bryon McMahon threw him out attempting to pilfer second base after pinch hitter Leroy Ottley struck out.

Cereghino At Best

Cereghino, who had only two days rest, was at his best Tuesday. Only one Bearcat hit the ball out of the infield. That was Bill Cox's fourth inning drive to center fielder Mario Leveroni.

The Mateans threatened on three occasions, advancing runners to third base. But Cereghino came through in the clutches and pitched himself out of trouble in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings.

The Indians scored once in the second frame when the ever-present Cereghino doubled home Larry Jenkins who had walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch.

Tally Twice In Fifth

Jeff put two runners on in both the third and fourth innings before they could ice the game in the fifth with two tallies. Don Wilson opened the frame with a one-baser, went to second on Mansel Roland's sacrifice, and checked in on Gianecchini's single. Leveroni singled in Gianecchini to wind up the scoring.

San Mateo's ace, Dick Matlock, hurled six innings and was credited with the loss. It was his second setback of the season, both shutouts to Cereghino.

Jeff entered the finals after Cereghino shut out Sequoia, 5-0, with a three hit job in the third game of the series Saturday.

Columbus, Ohio, Newspaper Reports Several Items Of Interest Here

A San Francisco shopman, who was offered a pistol in trade one day last week, took it into the next store, which was kept by a woman, and asked her opinion of it.

While she was examining it, the pistol was discharged and the woman was shot through the hand and the man killed.

The stranger who had desired to dispose of the pistol picked it up after the shooting and cooly walked away.

. . . So reads a new item in the Daily Dispatch of July 1, 1871. The Columbus, Ohio, paper evidently hadn't heard of complete reporting as no mention is made as to what happened to the stranger, or the names of the individuals involved.

Old Record

The newspaper, yellow and musty, is a relic left Mrs. Elva Gratton, 61 Hillcrest Drive, by her late father. While going through some of her father's belongings recently she came across the now historical document.

Although the Dispatch was published in Ohio, the editors had a fondness for California. In fact, more than a quarter of the tightly

$20000 DAMAGE SUIT BROUGHT AGAINST CITY

Nine-Year-Old Boy's Parents Claim Their Son Seriously Injured At Park

The city this week faces a $20,-000 damage suit brought by the parents of a nine-year-old boy who allegedly suffered injuries at Lincoln Park.

City councilmen Monday night refused to pay the claim, and turned the matter over to the city attorney.

The parents of Harvey Lamb, 154 Winchester street, assert their son suffered injuries when he was knocked from a slide in the park. They say he was hit in the side of the head by a baseball as he was coming down the slide.

The city is charged with negligence for allowing a ball game to be played near the slide.

Garden Of Eden Here

Adam And Eve May Return Home; Daly City Puts Out Welcome Mat

Adam and Eve were given a warm welcome today by officials of the Garden of Eden.

The Garden. . . geographically spotted as Daly City...offered the couple a limitless return engagement.

Speaking on behalf of local residents, Mayor Paul Green urged the pair to settle down in their real home. He noted they had been living in a pseudo paradise for too many years.

Happy, At Last

Specifically the mayor spoke of two San Francisco streets completely bulldozed out of existence recently by the Bayshore Freeway. San Francisco supervisors, prodded to action by Mr. Fixit of the San Francisco News, have sought another spot in their phony paradise for the pair; but have come up with nothing better than two street signs.

"We are certain Adam and Eve will be happy here," Mayor Green said, eyeing a map of Daly City. "And if they accept our offer we have just the spot for them in Westlake."

Gala Homecoming

The mayor, with the assistance of Henry Doelger & Co. officials, has made plans for a gala home coming party. The pair will settle down at an intersection marked off with an abundance of fig and apple trees.

A gardener will be on 24 hour duty to keep any tempting snakes off the streets.

"The only hitch to our plan may be some action by the San Francisco supervisors to hold Adam and Eve to their long lease in that city," Mayor Green concluded.

Daly City put some of its best legal brains to work today to find a means of breaking the lease which may be cancelled anyway by San Francisco's apathy.

Also, Mayor Green urged all good members of our Garden of Eden to write the San Francisco Supervisors urging them to release Adam and Eve.

The gates of the Garden are ready to swing open for the couple...all it will take is a slight shove.

trict should go through a battle. I recommend to you as parents to settle your differences.

"Let's not discuss my resignation, rather let us all cooperate for the building of a good district.

"I do not feel that I have to give any other explanation. My resignation is a personal matter.

"After all, the job of superintendent is a hazardous occoupation, and at the end of four years a superintendent must say "no" to so many people that he is sure to have made many enemies. However, there is no purpose in blaming anyone.

Make The Peace

"Let's forget the whole thing, and each and everyone do his best to make this a fine school district."

In conclusion, Snell said he was glad to see so many people at the meeting, and the "public interest was indeed gratifying."

Snell's explanation was followed by a barrage of questions aimed at the various school board members.

Mike Callan came under fire by the audience for his part in the construction of a fence at Westlake. Mrs. Helen Cheatham, board member, said the board would not pay for the fence which has cost nearly $2,500. She said it was not authorized at a regular meeting, and therefore not legal.

Well Meant

It was also brought out that the district attorney's office was trying to settle the matter ast a special meeting of the board last Wednesday afternoon.

Charles Becker, attorney for Westlake, summed up the whole matter of the fence by saying it might have been in questionable judgment, but it certainly was well meant.

When Callan was asked whether or not he favored a racall petition to remove Mrs. Cheatham from the board, he replied, "most certainly not." Callan went on to ask the audience for full cooperation and pledged he would do his best to bring harmony back to the school board.

Final Curtain

On the other hand, Mrs. Cheatham said she would try to settle any differences with Callan. This was generally taken to mean that she would drop her proposed libel suit against Callan for his alleged statement that she was behind the resignation of Snell.

The final outcome of the meeting appeared to be that at last the citizens had awakened to the fact they had a school board; and the board in turn was made more aware of the responsibility to the community.

Further details on citizen action concerning school board matters will be found in an adjoining letter on page 1.

Recall Petition Is Killed

$207,000 over the current year, there is an actual drop of $102,000 in the net cost of social welfare to the county.

Sheriff's Office

The total allowed was $329,766, compared to $365,174 requested by Whitmore, a net decrease of $35,408. However, the amount allowed includes $54,000 for the transfer of the ambulance service from the health department so that without the transfer the cut would have been nearly $90,000. The decrease also does not include the deletion of the $150,000 requested for a jail farm, which had been placed in a separate fund.

Probation and Juvenile Home

The total allowed for the probation department was $106,147, a decrease of $8,857 by deletion of three of the four new positions requested. The juvenile home budget stands at $6,777, a decrease of $12,177 from the request.

the Board and its employees and to free them from non-essential activities.

Proposed Meet

On the other hand, there are elements of informality, the easy give and take among all present, which could happen only in a small community, and these relationships should be cherished in the face of growth.

It is with this picture in mind, then, that I wish to offer the following proposals. The first step seems to be, appropriately enough, one towards education. The Board should call a public meeting sometime in July, possibly on their regular meeting night, to which they would invite Mr. Tormey, County Superintendent of Schools, and someone from the County's legal offices. Also present, if they have been hired, should be the new administrators. At this meeting Mr. Tormey should define the functions of the Board and the administrators, and the guest from the legal offices should be one hand to comment upon any technical problems which may arise. The audience should not only be privileged to ask questions; it should feel obliged to do so. The audience should seek to understand not only the duties of its elected and employed officials, but its own general responsibilities. After such a meeting we should all have equal insight into the structure of our school system, and more important, we will all be equally committed to our respective jobs. We will not, of course, be off-the-cuff school lawyers, but we will be able to discuss our problems with more inteligence and less personal venom than seems to have been possible in the past.

Next Step

The second step (the order is logical rather than chronological) is to demonstrate to the Board and to ourselves the nature of our interest and our willingness to maintain that interest over an extended period. Our first opportunity to do so will be at the June meeting. If we wish the Board to call a special meeting, we must show our sincerity. A large turnout in June will be the best token we can give. As the editorial in last week's Record pointed out, and as the Trustees themselves remarked, no small share of responsibility for the present confusion is our own because of our apathy.

To insure a large turnout in June, a telephone campaign is being instituted. Volunteers will attempt to call many residents in the school district to discuss with them the points mentioned in this letter and to urge them to attend the meeting. A major reason for sending this letter to The Record now is to avoid any misunderstanding about the purposes of this telephone campaign. It is not intended to intimidate or to put pressure on the Board. Any rumors to that effect should be scotched promptly. Refer doubters to this letter or to me.

The telephone campaign is merely an obvious method of arousing civic interest and responsibility in the school district. One of the greatest services we can render our children is keeping the affairs of their schools at a factual level and out of whispers and rumors. We will need help to do the telephoning. If you are willing to help, please send me a postcard. Please do not telephone.

Not Enough

Attendance at Board meetings when there is a fight in the air is not enough. Such attendance is neither fruitful nor fair. On the other hand, many meetings of the Board are routine and undoubtedly dull even to the Trustees. It is too much to hope that every meeting will command a large turnout, though ideally every meeting should. But the final step in this program must be to promote some sustained interest. I suggest then, as a final point, that after the educational discussion, we set up from among those present a geographically representative commit to keep in touch with the Board throughout the month, to see that there is some turnout for each meeting, and to be able to report to any interested person the state of school affairs. If at any time an issue arises which merits general discussion, the committee will alert the phone volunteers and se that there is a large group present—not to argue, but to assume proper responsibility in the administration of school plans. Thus, when significant decisions are made, we will all have participated in making them.

Assume Responsibility

I wish I could say blithely at this point that we must all now let bygones be bygones and forget the issue which have divided up in the past. That would be neither realistic nor practical. We don't want to forget that something made it impossible for our Board and its administrators to work together. We must remember ultimately the schools suffer under such conditions. My hope is that if we citizens will assume our share of responsibility (the word does recur, doesn't it!) we can work to eliminate or minimize such conditions so that our new superintendent and all of us, Board, teachers, parents, and children will be better off. Then perhaps inevitable—even desirable—differences of opinion will produce fruitful solutions instead of conflict, name calling, rumor, and a demoralized school system.

I wish, finally, to state that the ideas presented in this letter were not all originally my own. Several persons have contributed. But I do, naturally, endorse them all as here presented. I agreed to present them myself not out of a desire to afford secrecy to anyone, but for the sake of simplicity and efficiency. We hope there will be many other suggestions forthcoming. As we work together, we will all learn who stands for what; that is precisely the intention of the plan. But we will know from first hand experience, not from hearsay, and we will be able to respect each other as co-workers.

Don't forget — the telephone campaign will need volunteers. A post card please.

My thanks to The Record for making so much of its space available to me.

Sincerely,
Merritt T. Beckerman

William, the first male winner on record, won his prize with the expertly-finished robe of tan and blue striped cotton flannel with original faggotted detail at the collar, pockets and quilted cuffs. Gladys designed the novel three-piece lounging ensemble of bright aqua cotton flannel, with cut-out circus characters appliqued to the hem. Each teen-ager receives $250 in cash and an all-expense-paid trip to New York accompanied by their sewing instructors. Among other exciting plans Gladys and Bill will meet and talk on the radio with world-famous designers Vera Maxwell and Ceil Chapman. The high standard and great variety of the entries, speaks well indeed, the judges indicated, for the future of American design.

Also, of more than passing interest to any reader are the ads in the ancient newspaper. No prices are given, but here and there are such provocative lines as: "Our Billy keeps the best beer in the city" . . . and then there is an ad for the Dispatch, a newspaper "established and conducted by an association of practical newspapermen, delivered to subscribers at the rate of 65c a month" (almost double the price of The Record).

Circus Coming

There was some excitement about a circus coming to town, "400 Men and Horses, and an army of wild beasts." Adam Forepaugh was the gent conducting the menagerie, museum and circus. In a lengthly ad, old Adam invited "farmers and artisans to examine the beauty, style and action of the grand array of imported ponies."

And of interest to the ladies was the announcement by William G. Dunn & Co. that a "good hoop skirt" could be purchased for 25 cents.

Prison Life

Under a column head "local facts and fancies" were these items:

The Holly Water Works system has been introduced in the city prison . . . and the vermin that have heretofore infested that installation are being drowned out.

Now let your youngsters weep. A peanut famine is impending.

Getting back to California, there is an item about Alvinza Hayward (the gentleman after which the California town was named) who recently—this is 1871—sold out his interest in the Amador mine, noting "The Amador mine will hold out longer than we will."

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Richard V. Peer, Chillicothe, Ohio: I remember when the pitcher pump was a sign of prosperity in city and country. Every morning we had to prime it, pumping furiously on handle until water spewed into sink. Cold winter nights we wrapped the pipe with feed sacks or placed a lighted lantern under the sink. Pumping water to fill the boiler for Monday's wash was a Sunday night chore.

From Faye Smith, Paden City, W. Va.: I remember when button shoes were worn and we carried lanterns in walking at night many miles to country church and the girls sang tenor to the song entitled, "I Surrender All."

From Mrs. Harve Baker, Decatur, Ind.: I remember when the first telephones were installed. They were not to be used by children, and we had no desire to talk on the 'phone, and we looked upon it with awe. One evening, when dad and mother were gone, it started ringing. My old grandfather grabbed the receiver and shouted "hello!" A pleased look came on his face and he yelled, "Talk! Talk! Talk! Talk on!" One of his grandchildren started crying, and he yelled "Shut up!" The other party hung up the receiver, and thus ended the first telephone conversation at our house.

From Ralph Hetrick, Shellsville, Pa: I remember when I worked for $100 a year with board and lodging. I received pay at end of year. No half days work but full days, and used no shoes in the summer time. I was very proud to walk to a picnic with 25c of spending money. This was not always all spent.

From Anna McPherson, Spokane Wash.: I remember when I wore long sleeves and high neck dresses and every time I went outside I put on a sun bonnet to keep from getting tanned.

100 North County Girls Enter Senior Scouting At Tea Given In Millbrae

by Marian Griffis

A tea was given in honor of Intermediate Girl Scouts going on to Senior Scouting. It was held at the Milbrae Methodist Community Church last Sunday.

Aproximpately 100 eighth grade girls from troops in North San Mateo County were the honored guests.

Mrs. Edward E. Gould, execution director for the Federation of Girl Scout Councils of North San Mateo County, spoke on the program aid field for senior scouts and told about the international camps to be held in the Netherlands this summer. She also asked the girls what opportunities they thought senior scouting would give them.

Miss Mary Woodworth, field director, for this area, announced that program aid training would be held at the Mills Estate in Millbrae May 18-22.

Mrs. G. Zanone and Mrs. Herman Orovitz, leaders of Broadmoor, Colma Troop 17, were among the leaders of the graduating scouts who were individually presented with corsages.

Then 10 senior scouts approached a beautifully decorated table on which were 10 candles representing the Girl Scout laws. Each girl repeated a law as she lit a candle. The leaders called up the girls from their troops one at a time. The girls walked through an ivy covered gate to Miss Woodworth, who presented them with their senior pins. Ten of our local girls walked through that gate to senior scouting:

Donna Odell, Parkview Troop 12; Janice Toole, Charlene Taylor, Marianne Zanone, Fay Orovitz, Eileen de Barnardi, Barbara Fair, Irene Wilson, Yvonne Latrille and Joan Mayes from Troop 17. Eda Farhington, Judith Brandt and Aline De Botou, all of Troop 17, were unable to be present, but have received their senior pins.

After the pin ceremonies, refreshments consisting of punch, coffee, sandwiches and cookies were served by the senior scouts.

The newly-arrived senior scouts were proud of their advancement and were grateful to Mrs. D. B. McHenry of Millbrae, and the senior scout planning board, who had arranged the delightful affair.

Asilomar Meet

About 200 women from California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and the Territory of Hawaii gathered at Asilomar on May 22, 23 and 24 to discuss how best to vitalize the basic beliefs of girl scouting for the girls and adult volunteers. Mrs. Frederick Hershler of Oakland, region chairman, presided at the conference. Representatives from this area were:

Mrs. George Windhurst, 1st vice president of the Daly City-Colma Girl Scout Council; Mrs. F. W. Mann, president of the south San Francisco council; and Miss Carolyn Passonnean, field director of the North County Council.

Miss Margaret Murray, national representative from New York City, spoke from the national viewpoint on adult leadership roles, and Regional Director Miss Val Stark of Palo Alto, gave an inspiring talk emphasizing the need for reiterating the Girl Scout Promise and Laws.

Spaghetti Feed

Last Wednesday morning, Troop 17 prepared its own luncheon at the Colma Community Center. As the girls are studying other countries in connection with becoming second class scouts, they invited Mrs. Robert Mize, a war bride of Australia and now a resident of Broadmoor. She brought along a toy kangaroo and kaola bear. She told about being a brownie in Australia.

Sherry Sisk and Sharon Harmon cooked the spaghetti while other girls dressed for their skits, "Snow White" and "Goldilocks." Mrs. Mina Fradenburg and Mrs. Alice Detweiler, leaders of the troop, reported the whole affair a great success.

Rebuild Bridge

At 3 a.m. Sunday morning Police Chief Paul Schmidt and three of the reserve policemen of the Broadmoor Police District, which serves Broadmoor, Garden Village and Colma, completed their many official duties and left for Girl Scout Camp Wasibo in enthusiastic response to an urgent appeal for men to help get the camp in shape for the girls. They spent the day happily and industriously demonstrating their interest in community service by rebuilding a bridge.

Sunday morning Sgt. Ralph Danron, his wife and daughter, Susan, Joined the other policemen, Lt. Harry Brown and officers Bob Williams and Cornel Holmes in their labors.

In addition, the policemen found time to fascinate the children of the other volunteer workers, Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton, Daly City; Mr. and Mrs. L. Hadley and their sons, Warren and Tommy Murray, of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Bird, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Tunzi and daughter, Gayle, Lomita Park, who spent several weekends building the dam for the swimming pool. The women concentrated their efforts on preparing the kitchen.

There remains much to be done in preparation for the opening of camp July 2, and other such service-minded people are welcome to call Mrs. Lunzi at JU. 8-3251.

NEWS FROM THE SCHOOLS

COLMA SCHOOL

Room 4 has been learning about banking. The class has discussed the function of banks and the various dealings that the pupils will have with the banks in the future. They have learned the difference between savings and commercial accounts and the advantages of each. They have also studied the problem of lending and ways of computing interest.

The students of the seventh grade in Room 6 are studying about life in the Middle Ages. They have seen strip films on castles, medieval weapons, and tournaments. They are making a booklet on the Middle Ages.

All eighth graders—Rooms 1, 3, and 8—are either preparing for or are being tested in various subjects in preparation for their graduation.

The films "You and Your Friends" and "Junior Prom" gave food for thought to many eighth graders. They taught etiquette in a very vivid fashion.

The sub-deb forum in Room 1, 8th grade each Friday, from questions submitted by the group, received added interest and impetus, as students enjoyed two visual aids, namely "Friends" and "Junior Prom." Becoming socially adjusted and as a social transition to secondary school, these young adults, are learning not only the "Emily Post" of community living, but the ability to stand before a group, and conduct panel and forum discussions. Supplementing this type of health teaching, the state text on the chapters of mental health are being discussed, and viewed.

CROCKER SCHOOL

Room 2

Room 3

Last week the children in Room 3 were especially interested in the try-outs for the play day held at Jefferson High School for the elementary school pupils. Many of the children entered each event. Some of those who won a place in the semi-finals were: Jack Lewkowitz, Rae Alee Ward, Wilma Sue Scott, Dennis Bucher, Alan Mateer, Roland Morton, Catherine Rasmussen, and Connie Murphy.

Room 4

The sixth grade was proud to be represented in the track meet held May 20th at the High School field. Judy Mitchell took part in the softball pitch and Irene Schiaffino, Judy Mitchell, and Loretta Berg took part in the 200 yard relay for girls.

The boys who took part were: Danny Rasmussen in the softball pitch and broad jump; Billy Fairchild in the softball pitch, football throw, and broad jump; James Hawthorne in the 50 yard dash; and Robert Giseiker in the football throw.

Judy Mitchell placed first in the 50 yard dash and was a member of the third-place relay team.

Room 5

Phyllis Benner is going to move to New Zealand this summer. Sandra Fortier is moving to Oregon during the summer.

Room 6

The sixth grade in Room 6 was glad to welcome Tom Toohey back to school. He has been absent for several weeks with an infected foot.

We have begun to prepare our final issue of the room paper. We hope to have many interesting stories, poems, and cartoons in this edition. It is part of our language work.

WATCH YOUR HEADLIGHTS

Car owners still are criticized for the way in which they fail to make correct use of their multi-beam headlights, according to the National Automobile Club. The most common blunder is that of forgetting that the long range beam should be used only when no car is approaching from the opposite direction. It has a much greater range and intensity than the old driving light and, like all greater power, should be handled with care.

And How About After The Battle?

Something happened to the otherwise apathetic residents of Daly City and Broadmoor last week...they got mad.

At the regular meeting of the Jefferson Elementary School Board over 100 citizens showed up to find out why James Snell had quit as Superintendent of Schools. They also had a few questions to ask the school board.

We don't know how many of them were there for the better interests of the community, and how many were around to watch a good fight; but the point is they turned out for a public meeting. In the otherwise cold and bleak classroom, there were scores of questioning, observant citizens.

To Mr. Snell's everlasting credit, he squelched any possibility of a school district squabble. He called on the community for more interest in their schools, for cooperation with the school board and for general harmony. He pointed out that the district's purpose was to educate children, not to serve as a sounding board for excited, truculent taxpayers.

The bread was cast upon the waters, and level headed men and women took up the Snell proposal for harmony and cooperation. They called upon their fellows to examine the real problems instead of the personalities. They demanded, and got, a pledge of cooperation from school board members.

And a few of the citizens saw beyond that meeting and have formed a group to keep an eye on the activities of the school district. They hope this organization will attend school board meetings and thereby make it possible for this district to hold a good superintendent of schools for more than a year or two.

Here is a healthy sign. Here is democracy at work in the real sense of the word. Yet, we wonder how long interest will remain in the school problems, how long you and you will remember what has transpired over the past three weeks? In the heat of "battle" we are all interested, if in nothing else than saving our own necks, or the education of our children. But when the battle is over, how many will remain to secure the peace?

It will indeed be interesting to watch the attendance at the school board meetings over the next few months. We hope the day never returns when the board members do not have to speak above a whisper to reach the one or two people attending the meetings.

We Want Adam And Eve Returned

Daly City came to the rescue of Adam and Eve today...and incidentally San Francisco.

Bulldozed out of the pseudo paradise of San Francisco, Adam and Eve streets were vainly looking for a home. Mr. Fixit, of the San Francisco News, had urged the Supervisors to find a new intersection where the streets might join and flourish.

Displaying its usual apathy over the more important matters of life, the San Francisco Supervisors failed to act. True, they appropriated a few cents for new street signs, but they could not come up with a second Garden of Eden.

And little wonder. The Supervisors were looking for the Garden in San Francisco, when every Daly City resident knows it is located right here.

Today Mayor Paul Green spotted an intersection in Westlake for the two streets. He has made arrangements to plant fig and apple trees along the streets. He will also hire a gardener to keep away any snakes.

Only one thing remains. San Francisco must agree to let Adam and Eve break their long standing lease with that city.

Give Adam and Eve a hand. Write the San Francisco Supervisors today. Demand that they allow the couple to return to the true Garden of Eden...Daly City.

Three Rules for Well-Being

A YEAR AGO Edith Sunde, 628 West 114th Street, New York City, was on the verge of a breakdown. She would go to her work every morning feeling that a crushing weight was settling down on her. She didn't see how she was going to handle all the work before her, some of it left over from the day before. She dreaded the nerve-racking sessions with her high-strung boss who worked always under tension. At the end of the day, she had no appetite, and only forced down the food necessary to keep her going. All the day long, every day, from morning to night, she was tired. When she tried to sleep, it was only half a sleep, the other half was a nightmare.

Carnegie

Did this mental state take its toll? Naturally! That was inevitable. Soon her physical self became undermined. She suffered violent pains in her stomach. She went to a doctor who discovered a thyroid deficiency and said her pulse rate was far too high. Then he told her what she already knew, that she was living under too great strain. He added that he could relieve her symptoms but that she herself would have to effect the cure.

As she left the doctor's office, she asked herself if it were worth while? She was living 1500 miles from home. Human values meant most to her yet there was no opportunity to give anything significant to anyone's life. If she were run over no one would miss her particularly. A gnawing sense of futility suffused her entire being.

Suddenly she wondered whether the people all around her felt the same. What would happen if each of them became swiftly and miraculously happy. Each helping the other!

Well, she might find someone she could help. She went home and wrote a set of rules to follow for just one week, to see if they would work. Here they are:

1—Try to learn another's problems and help to solve them.
2—Do the job at hand and forget all the others.
3—Laugh often, and laugh at myself. See the funny side of troubles whenever possible.

Within a month the doctor told her she needn't take any more thyroid tablets! Shortly after she went on a vacation, climbed mountains, went swimming, took long hikes. Returning, her doctor pronounced her in perfect physical condition.

County Fair Cost Totals $398,480

MAY 31. (CNS)—District Fairs in California represent an investment of $15,536,861 and County Fairs $7,373,862, an assembly interim committee on fairs and expositions said this week.

In a report compiled over the past year, the committee said the San Mateo county fair represents an investment of $398,480.

In a breakdown of investments, much of which have been contributed by the state, the committee listed the following as investments for the district fairs: Land, $2,098,416; buildings and improvements, $12,385,981; equipment, $1,052,462.

For the county fairs the breakdown shows: land $792,236; buildings and improvements, $6,101,327; equipment, $480,297.

The totals given by the committee do not include the huge state fair plant at Sacramento which represents an investment of many millions of dollars and its site which is valued at more than $2,500,000, being located in a choice residential section of the city.

Among the district fairs, San Francisco's famed grand national livestock show has the greatest investment, $4,212,486, while Santa Clara county is a leader in the strictly county fairs with $1,167,795.

KATHLEEN NORRIS
The Jitters

THE POPULAR THING today is to get the jitters. You can get them over the simplest situation in the world: the everyday situation of having not quite enough money, having just a little too much liquor, having a husband who sometimes goes into an attack of bad temper, losing your purse downtown and receiving a tart letter from your husband's mother.

This is excellent material for the jitters, nerves, tears, bad sleep, hysteria, utter flat hopeless discouragement with the world.

There are thousands of other good reasons. Almost any life will supply enough fatigue, doubt, embarrassment, uncertainty and just plain dull monotony to send a woman to a psychiatrist. And once launched on that course her domestic position is that of a nation at war; everything is excusable and nothing has to be explained.

"Wanda is going to Doctor Malfalcon," murmured Wanda's friends recently. "Oh, no," says the listener, shocked. "Yes, she's really bad," answers the first. "Ed was telling Joe. She got so nervous that if one of the children couldn't find a pair of socks she began to scream, and one day she took a full bottle of bourbon and smashed it in the fireplace." "For heavens sake, I wonder if she'll ever get over it," the listener gasps.

A Contract

And all this because Wanda, like the rest of us, wanted a beau when she was 20; wanted to get married; certainly intended to have a darling little baby or two, had great fun picking out wallpapers and kitchen things for the new house. And having contracted for all this suddenly she got sick of it all. Other women were having much more fun, and Wanda didn't see how she could get out of that same kitchen and away from those same babies and have fun, too.

"... arguments with teachers ..."

So she went for nervous gloom at first, and dreary replies to Ed at breakfast, and angry arguments with the teachers who complained of Mary-Jo's arithmetic papers and Dickie's bad manners. And then 10 horrible things happened and Wanda just gave up, and had fits of indubitable trembling, sudden sweats, dreams from which she awakened screaming, and all the other symptoms that indicated that she must go to the warm, quiet office of a strange man and lie down on a couch and talk rapturously about herself, while he looked the other way.

Now since this is really a sad situation, and is becoming a pretty prevalent one, here are just a few suggestions for wives between the ages of—say 32 and 42.

1.—Stop putting the children first, and put the husband first. He has played second fiddle long enough to their bottles and measles, their demands and unreasonableness. These things are part of young parenthood, and it is all-important, but when the children get to school ages, then Wanda had better wake up and remember that her promise was to Ed, not to the children.

Deadly Serious

2.—Take that matter of school work and school manners with deadly seriousness. It is deadly serious. Oversee the children's grubby pencils and smeared books from the beginning. A good hour for this from four to five o'clock daily. With drinks of milk, cookies, washed faces and hands, settle them down steadily to work. Dad won't be home then, supper is making no demands, and if you start this practice early, it will not only be of inestimable advantage to the children, but it may save your marriage. But make it inexorably regular. No excuses that they are tired after school and these are lovely hours outdoors, and you want to play bridge at Lorraine's. This is your job, and if you stick to it for a year or two of school days—only about 200 times a year, after all, your children will finish the grammar grades with honors, without bothering you at all.

3.—Have plans. Break up the monotony of the pattern. Plan hospitalities and amusements for the children on Saturdays, but at other times jolt the man of the house with a plan that has enjoyment for you two as its object. Watch the incredulity and pleasure on his face when you suggest a two-day escape into fishing country, or, if you are suburban folk, make the trip to the city, see a show, stay in all the luxury of a hotel, with breakfast upstairs, and live luxuriously for a day.

AFFAIRS OF STATE
by Henry C. MacArthur

(CNS) — With less than four weeks to go before the close of the 1951 legislative session, which ends at midnight, June 23, by constitutional requirement, many of the major matters before the solons are still to be decided.

This means either that important matters affecting the welfare of the state either will go by the boards, be referred to interim committees, or be passed hastily, without the deliberation necessary to work out programs in the best interests of the people.

First, the matter of the state's billion dollar plus budget, is one causing many legislators, particularly those with special appropriation bills, a lot of concern. The budget still is before the state senate finance committee, headed by Senator Ben Hulse, of Imperial county.

Word Goes Round

Word has gotten round that Hulse is keeping the budget in committee deliberately to prevent a flood of special appropriations bills from reaching the floor of the legislature, and thereby obviate the necessity of many battles over the bills, but particularly, to circumvent any increase in taxes, which would be necessary if any great amount of special appropriations, all of which are outside the budget, are passed.

The matter of child care centers, always a point of issue in the legislature, has not been resolved as yet. Funds for the centers have been cut out of the budget but special appropriation bills are still before the legislature.

One of the big issues of the legislature, the subject of fringe areas around metropolitan centers, is still before the assembly committee on local government. With cities and counties in an all-out row over this subject, it is doubtful if any sound legislation will be worked out at this session of the legislature to determine whether counties can assess fringe areas for special services, or whether the areas will be permitted to form urban districts to handle these city services.

The question of whether Governor Warren will get funds for a crime commission is tied up with the budget, although the action of the legislature in passing a bill to give the commission subpoena powers indicates it will not quibble over the $110,000 set up in the budget for this commission.

Civil Defense

Also, the question of civilian defense, which loomed large at the beginning of the session, appears to have bogged down. The governor indicated as much as $140,000,000 might be needed in January; Senator George Hatfield has a bill which would apropriate from ten to twelve million for the activity, and now he says he will not press even for this, because of the fact the federal government has submitted no program for civilian defense.

The cigaret tax is officially dead, which means that in all probability, no additional money for school aid allocations will be voted, at least, not as much as the educators contemplated which ran up to fifty millions.

The big question of any additional funds for roads and highways likewise remains to be settled, with Senator Randolph Collier's measure for a gas tax increase still before committees. Collier seeks a vote of the people on a bilion dollar highway program.

Altogether, the accomplishments of the legislature so far are not impressive.

FOOD TOO COSTLY? . . . "Burmah," Indian fakir in Rome, tries to set fasting record sealed in coffin with python for company and broken glass for mattress.

HOT LIPS . . . Frank Campbell, Northwestern U., was radioactive, so had to break date with Alice Tenczar. Now geiger counter says he's O.K. He works in chemistry lab.

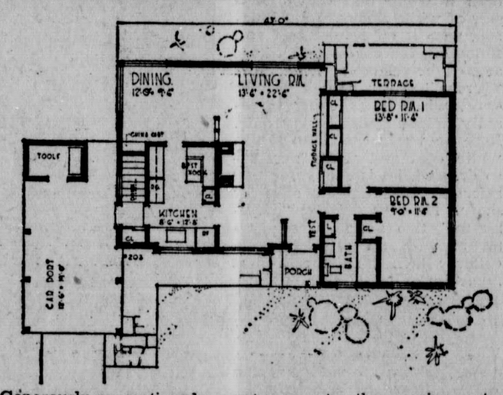
House Roomy, Economical



Generously proportioned rooms feature this house, designed with an awareness of current building costs. It is Plan No. 203 of Walter T. Anicka, architect, of 617 Forest Ave., Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The combination living and dining room affords flexible living area with a view of the garden. Hardwood plywood paneling faced with richly-grained hardwood veneer is specified by the architect for stability and permanence and to create an atmosphere of warmth and comfort. A modern glazed partition, screening the entrance and storage wall, may include a built-in radio or television screen.

Bedrooms and bath form a separate unit. All of the wardrobe-type closets have sliding doors of hardwood veneer—affording ease of maintenance which is a feature of all hardwood veneer surfaces.

The kitchen contains ample storage space and provides direct access to the service entrance with its convenient clothes closet and stairway to the basement. A built-in breakfast nook also is provided.

Total floor space, with an absolute minimum of hall area, is 990 square feet, a useful figure in arriving at local building costs.

Protected by a low-pitched roof of colorful, fire-resistant asphalt shingles, this modest home will blend into the color pattern of its neighbors if situated on a city lot, or will look equally attractive when individually color-styled for an open country setting. The exterior is designed for either shingle or clapboard siding to contrast with the color of the asphalt roof, with an attached car port giving added distinction.

(Detailed building plans for this house are available from Walter T. Anicka, 617 Forest Avenue, Ann Arbor, Mich. Refer to Plan No. 203.)

SUNDAY'S SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

The Southern Kingdom.
II Kings 18: 1-7; Isaiah 31: 1-3.
Memory Selection: Psalms 46:10.

IN THE DIVISION of the kingdom of David and Solomon, the Southern Kingdom of Judah had several points of superiority over the Northern Kingdom. Judah had the reigning house of David, which kept the throne until the end. Jerusalem was a strong city for a capital. Within it was the magnificent temple. It is not strange that the Southern Kingdom endured for more than a century after the downfall of the Northern Kingdom.

While there were wicked kings who did evil in the sight of the Lord, there were several great rulers in the succesion of David. Prominent among these was Hezekiah, the "good king." He cleansed the land of idolatry, and even destroyed the brazen serpent, that Moses had lifted up in the wilderness, because it had become an object of superstitious veneration. Hezekiah boldly resisted the Assyrians, and God delivered him from the host of Sennacherib before Jerusalem by a dread visitation that destroyed the troops.

Greater than Hezekiah was the mighty prophet Isaiah. Tireless in his efforts to preserve the nation, he was especially active against alliance with Egypt, not only because it was the land of his people's bondage and should have been abhorrent but also because dependence upon an earthly power would supplant trust in Jehovah. Let us in our own needs today learn to trust God above all.....

a peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

ROSEMARY DeCAMP, who has been Judy Price on CBS' "Dr. Christian" show ever since the inception of the series 14 years ago, admits she was fired from her first radio job for being late to a rehearsal . . . It was in the days when she was doing "Little Theatre" work after being considered the drama queen of her college campus, and the drudgery of a radio assignment didn't fit into the glamorous illusions she then fostered about Art with a capital "A" . . . After that first experience, Rosemary fast achieved the reputation of being the only one to arrive at every radio rehearsal a half-hour early!

Since those days, Rosemary has also achieved an enviable success in Hollywood, in all three mediums of pictures, television and radio . . . On the screen, you've seen her in such films as "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Jungle Book," "Night Unto Night," "Nora Prentiss," "From This Day Forward," plus many others, and you'll see her playing Doris Day's mother in "On Moonlight Bay" . . . Frequently made up for greying maternal roles on the screen, Rosemary in real life is the youthful mother of three little girls: Nana, 8; Martha, 4; and Valerie, 3 . . . The actress is married to Southern California lawyer-judge, John Shidley, whom she first met at a college prom during her "arty" days . . . John only liked her so-so then, but changed his mind when he met her again some years later.

Rosemary has traveled extensively—through Europe, Hawaii, Canada, Mexico and South America . . . Her father was a mining engineer and she spent her childhood in wild, remote areas of the North and South American continents . . . Her childhood ambition was to be a doctor and her favorite reading matter remains medical discourses, so her radio role as assistant to CBS' Doctor Christian is very much to her liking.

Just as many listeners think of Jean Hersholt as a real doctor, Rosemary is often regarded as a bonafide nurse . . . She wears a white nurse's uniform when she does the weekly broadcast, but her "nursing" is restricted to her immediate family and friends.

CALIFORNIA LAST WEEK

THE GOVERNOR: Continued his bill signing activities; returned from Washington, D.C., made a number of minor appointments, and flew to Alaska to make a University of Alaska speech, as the guest of Governor Greuning of the territory. Signed reapportionment bills.

THE LEGISLATURE progressed during the week, but major issues still are tied up in various committees. The state budget is in senate finance, with not much chance of coming out until next month. Along with the budget are scores of special appropriation bills, held up until action is taken on the budget. Delay in budget action was interpreted by some as a "filibuster" against the special appropriation bills.

CONTROVERSIES: A battle between giant lobbying interests, the County Supervisors Association and the League of California Municipalities, is under way over the urban district bills, with action slated by the Assembly Committee on Municipal and County government slated within a week or so. One of the big battles anticipated was over the Governor's bill for subpoena powers for the crime commission, but the battle failed to develop openly when opponents failed to round up enough votes to kill the measure. The anti-draw poker bill was killed by the Senate Governmental Efficiency and Economy committee, which at the same meeting, passed out a night horse racing measure.

REPORTS: Assembly committee on public morals handed down a length report which indicated that laws pertaining to regulation of cigarette machines are unworkable, and recommended changes providing for more supervision of these machines to keep cigarettes out of the hands of minors.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

AS THE JOINT Chiefs of Staff continued their rebuttal of the testimony of General Douglas MacArthur, deposed far east commander, disagreeing with some of the general's views and assailing his methods of bringing them to public attention, the political edge was gradually wearing away on interest in the "great debate" as members of the congress obtained an overall global picture of this nation's foreign policy, as compared to the Asian picture painted by MacArthur.

Attendance was gradually decreasing at the joint senate committee hearings although general overall interest does not appear to be in any danger of fading away.

In the meantime several congressional committees have taken up the question of the nation's purse strings, the appropriations, the budget and just what steps shall be taken to slash away at governmental expenditure. Chief among the subjects at hand is the annual fight made on the growing federal grants-in-aid to the states. Not only would heavy slashes made in these grants in aid curb some important services which the people over a long period have come to expect, but any heavy slashes into long established federal grants would work a hardship on state budgets and bring about local tax increases, or abolishment of the services in question.

During the 1950 fiscal year, the government disbursed to the states a total of $2,152,337,143 in 41 grant-in-aid programs according to the sub-committee of the senate committee on expenditures in the executive departments. This was a ~~$296,000,000~~ increase over the same programs in 1949, and for 1952 the budget estimate for grants in aid amounts to $3,176,512,124.

Congress has served notice however that it is in a mood to cut into some of the budget estimates and such warnings have come from the joint committee on the economic report, the house and senate appropriations committees and the joint committee on reduction of non-essential expenditures. Usually these grants are made on a matching basis between the federal government and the states. The largest such federal aid grant is for old age assistance for aged and needy, which for 1950 totaled $843,161,115, a 16 percent increase over 1949. For 1951, $853,627,000 was apportioned.

The second largest grant in aid is for highway construction, where for 1951 the expenditure was $433,125,000. This is the best known of the grant-in-aid programs and it is made on a 50-50 matching basis. Third largest is federal aid for dependent children under 18. Because of increased aid voted by congress, the program showed a 25 percent increase for 1950 over 1949 and a 46 percent boost for 1950. Outlay for 1951 is estimated at $345,205,000.

Fourth in line, comes unemployment compensation and employment administration. States bear actual cost of unemployment compensation, but the federal government shares with the states, the cost of administering the compensation and employment services program. For 1951 the estimate is $171,047,000, a one percent increase over 1950. The school lunch program is fifth largest with the federal government providing assistance in both funds and food. It increased 10 percent in 1950 over 1949 and expected cash outlay for 1951 is estimated at $64,625,000.

A new program — hospital construction is sixth largest for 1950. For helping defray hospital and health center construction Uncle Sam put out $56,968,000 in 1950 and expects to spend $75,000,000 this year. This is a temporary program, however. Distribution of surplus agricultural commodities is seventh in line with the figures ~~$35,551,769~~ in 1940, $50,326,000 in 1950 and approximately $25,000,000 in 1951. Next comes the federal airport program in which the federal government provides for construction of airports in the national system. The program is nearing completion, but cost $32,782,000 in 1950 and an estimated $16,075,000 in 1951.

Agricultural extension work is ninth largest, a long time established program with $31,025,000 in 1950 and an estimated $31,547,000 in 1951.

THE APPOINTMENT of J. Allardyce Dickens as Mr. Average American by the Average American Committee was delayed by the revelation that Mr. Dickens has a stalk of celery sprouting from each ear.

The slight irregularity in Mr. Dickens' qualifications for an Average American might have been overlooked but for the discovery by some of the conservative committee members that Mr. Dickens had sown lettuce seed instead of celery seed.

"I grew celery last year and thought it about time for a rotation of crops," Mr. Dickens explained, slightly chagrined.

CERTAIN PARTISANS for Mr. Dickens on the committee agreed that the average Average American may not get celery from lettuce seed, but they insisted that the committee was fortunate in finding an unusual Average American. These men were indeed liberals.

"Nothing but an exceptional Average American for us," they declared.

But the conservative anti-Dickens element continued to voice resentment and to nurse the technical infraction of normality inherent in a man's getting celery from lettuce seed.

"Any man who sows lettuce seed in his ears," they protested, "is way off the norm somewhere if he gets celery."

THEY DIDN'T MIND appointing an abnormality Mr. Average American, but they wanted a normal abnormality who gets lettuce from lettuce seeds in his ears.

The conservative proponents of an everyday, ordinary and common abnormality and the liberal backers of a rare, unique and extraordinary average debated and debated.

The democratic public, wildly acclaiming the average guy, fell in love with Dickens' rare and bizarre qualities and assured his appointment by clamour.

ABOVE THE HULLABALOO

By LYTLE HULL

UP TO THE TIME this is written, no one in authority in our government has made the flat statement that the United States will not permit Red China to take over the island of Formosa regardless of anything the United Nations, or any part thereof, may wish or may decide.

If Red China can be "Munichedd" with that vital portion of our Pacific defense line—as the British government seems to believe, why shouldn't Mao settle for Hongkong? Maybe he could save face if he ordered a cease fire in exchange for that overworked port of entry for British shipments to Communist China. Mr. Attlee's government has exchanged some pieces of paper for the physical properties of the hypothetical ownership of Hong Kong, and appease Mr. Mao at British expense instead of ours?

(Incidentally when this column mentions the present British government, it does not mean to confuse that "august" body with the British people.)

Ever since the New Deal came into power in this country, it has wasted our substance in one way or another. Since the latter days of the last war it has sacrificed more than our wealth. Today we are in serious danger of destruction at the hands of a nation whose aggressive power was so enhanced at Yalta and Potsdam. We must call a halt to this formula before we become too weak to defend ourselves. We must call that halt at our defense line along the coasts of Red China—Japan, Formosa, the Philippines. Lose Formosa and that line is broken right in the middle.

The American people must see to it that our government is not permitted to give up Formosa regardless of anything the United Nations may vote. There are plenty of protestations coming out of Washington at this moment when the New Deal's Far Eastern policy is on trial.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

Gather round, dear parents, and listen to me shout out the news about "Toyland Nursery" school. IT IS WONDERFUL—and I don't mean just from a parents point of view. "Toyland" is educational play and living in ACTION, and the children themselves are its living results!

For those who do not already know the facts about the school—let me pass on the following information.

"Toyland," located at 474 San Diego Ave., is directed by Mrs. Grace Wilson who is a former Public Health nurse and nursery school worker. She is assisted by Miss Charlotte Howard as Educational Director. Miss Howard, a former Waac, is a fully accredited and experienced NURSERY SCHOOL TEACHER. Other teachers are also on duty morning and afternoon to fulfill the State requirement of "one teacher for every eight children" — plus a cook-housekeeper for jobs unconnected with child training. So much for the staff.

"Toyland" is a PRIVATELY OPERATED school open to any child between the ages of two and five who needs FULL DAY CARE. School hours are from seven a.m. to six p.m. FEE for this care is $60.00 per month for five days a week. Breakfast or transportation are available for an extra amount.

"What IS this FULL DAY CARE—" one woman asked me "and does my two year old have to be toilet trained before he can enter?"

Taking "toilet training" first—the answer is "No!" Your child does not have to be fully trained in order to enter nursery school. The staff is expressly hired to TRAIN AND HELP children, they are NOT BABY SITTERS—they are teachers!

Full Care

FULL DAY CARE, however, needs a little more explanation and involves a great deal more than "toilet training.' Take food, for instance.

The children are given mid-morning juice, a hot meal at noon which included meat or fish, vegetable, salad, milk, bread and butter, potatoes or rice and dessert! They also have a snack in mid-afternoon. The food is delicious, too, from my samples!

Rests are taken every afternoon from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. with each child on his own cot—UNDER SUPERVISION! Smaller youngsters are put down for a short rest before going outside to play in the morning and afternoon. (YARD play is strenuous! The children play as they please with swings, slides, wheel toys, sand box, play house, etc. Only rules are those of normal good behavior such as taking turns, playing fair —and no rough stuff.)

Many Activities

Last, but not least by a long shot, are the many and varied activities called "PLAY" by the children . . . and "LEARNING" by the teachers.

There are trucks and cars, trains and building blocks; there is a play house complete with dolls, a stove, baby crib, table and chairs. . . . There are puzzles and pull toys, books for looking and reading—toys galore for any child's taste—but there is more to come!

Creative activities—and believe me, these children ARE creative—include finger painting and easel painting, work in clay, crayons and chalk.

"Why?" and "How?" Those two headaches for mothers and fathers—are soothed with Science and Nature study. The children have planted grass on wet sponges and they also have a garden of their own in the yard. They have hunted the mighty Snail, touched the delicacy of a spider's web and felt the furry coat of a caterpillar —and they love it!

Music is used in many ways—for games, for singing, for the rhythm band and for sleepy music at resttime. The school has a piano and a victrola, but best of all is the music the children make themselves with bells, sticks, drums and cymbals! They think so too!

What's In It?

Now that you have read the above—you are probably wondering if this is one big advertisement. "What's in it for her?" you might well ask—and nothing gives me more pleasure than to tell you WHY I am so enthusiastic! I have my son in Toyland!

Two short weeks there have done things for Malcolm that we had never been able to do for him at home—even with the best of intentions. . . !

He was stand-offish with other children, he whimpered for Mother or any handy adult to settle his problems. Oh, he had toys and attention, but not what he needed most.

"What was that?" you ask.

"Lots of other children around him—and the chance to be, not my age BUT HIS OWN AGE—doing things HIS way.

I cannot put into words just what Toyland has done for Malcolm, but his grandmother came pretty close to doing it when she visited us last night after a month's absence. She was watching Malcolm very closely and after about two hours, she said, beaming all over her face. . .

"Well, Jane, you've lost a BABY, but you finally have yourselves a real BOY!"

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS IN RURAL AREAS

Traffic accidents in the rural areas of California showed a marked increase during the first three months of 1951 when compared with the same period of 1950, reports the National Automobile Club. During the first three months of 1951 there were 6,251 reportable accidents, 9,739 persons injured, and 501 persons killed, while during the same period of 1950 there were 5,218 reportable accidents, 8,040 persons injured, and 381 persons killed.

Athletes Honored At Spring Dinner

San Mateo Junior College students honored their spring semester athletes with a dinner Monday evening in the dining hall of the Coyote Point campus.

Basketball, baseball, track, tennis and golf players were presented their block letters and two-year awards. The Associated Women Students and the Women's Athletic Association arranged the dinner.

June graduates of the college enjoyed their outing at Adobe Creek Lodge last Friday afternoon. The annual event featured a picnic lunch, swimming, games and hiking.

The annual music festival will be presented by the college music department June 8 in the college auditorium on the Baldwin campus. The a cappella choir, the orchestra and soloists from each group will present the program under the direction of Frederic Roehr and Elmer Young Jr. of the faculty. The public is invited.

With the cherry season here, housewives wishing to can fruit at the college canning center can obtain full information regarding days and appointments by phoning the college office or by visiting the college. The center is off to a busy start, as many families indicate that they wish to can fruit and vegetables this season.

Livermore Rodeo Slated June 9-10

Historically the oldest outdoor western action show in California and hailed as "the world's fastest," the 34th anual Livermore Rodeo will be staged Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10 with champion cowboys and cowgirls from all parts of the United States and Canada participating.

The dizzy speed generated at this rodeo is made possible because the Livermore plant is the largest of them all with 25 chutes providing the means of releasing animals at the rate of one a minute.

While the usual bronc-busting, bull-dogging, steer-wrestling and other thrilling hoof-and-horn contests are taking place in the big arena, there will be races, fancy exhibitions of horsemanship and a classy horse show under way on the track. Not even the variety of entertaining events of a 3-ring circus can match the varied simultaneous action of the Livermore Rodeo.

This western classic will be opened Saturday morning, June 9, at 10 o'clock with a spectacular parade in downtown Livermore, featuring stage coaches, buckboards and other picturesque vehicles of the old west when it was really "wild and wooly," as well as modern floats, bands, drum corps and crack drill teams.

This parade will be followed at 12:30 p.m. the same day by another intriguing sight for the throngs, a parade of rodeo in participants from downtown to the rodeo grounds.

The rodeo itself will be started promptly at 1:30 p.m. each day, followed nightly by a gay carnival and street dancing downtown.

"This year Livermore is going all-out more than ever to put on the biggest western sports show of all," promises A. B. (Sport) Fallingham, president of the Livermore Rodeo Association.

"FOUL" MEANS DIRTY

A "fouled" spark plug is one that is misfiring, or failing to fire, as a result of a deposit on the points, declares the National Automobile Club. In other words, it simply is a dirty plug. The dirt usually is the product of a collection of carbonized oil. If the plug fires properly the combustion is such as to burn completely all of the burnable materials int he cylinder.

NO, THIS IS NOT JULY 4—IT IS RUGGED TRAINING FOR COMBAT—No child's play or July Fourth celebration here where infantrymen crawl, squeeze and twist through the mud and jagged barbed wire at Fort Meade with live tracer bullets whining only a few feet overhead, and placed demolitions going off nearby—almost like the real thing, combat—the Army's infiltration course.

Color Gives Barracks 'New Look'

This is the Army, Mr. Jones—1950 style—at Westover Field, Mass., where barracks as modern and colorful as model homes are being provided for officers and enlisted men. Approximately 2,000 units, each accommodating two families, are under construction at the Westover Air Force base as a result of a bill passed by Congress two years ago and amended last Spring to provide improved housing at permanent military installations.

The families of Westover enlisted personnel are the first to benefit from the program which calls for construction of rental housing through cooperation with private builders. Rents range from $55 to $95 monthly for enlisted men and officers pay $105.

A combination of ranch house and colonial design, the homelike-appearing barracks feature bright colors both inside and out which get away entirely from even the slightest suggestion of military drab. This is the work of Beatrice West, New York color consultant and designer, who contends that liberal use of color is the most effective way to give each home individuality when dwellings of the same general design are grouped.

As the roofs are highly visible and are the largest single unbroken areas to meet the eye, the asphalt shingle roofs in five basic colors—green, brown, slate, red and black—set the tone for the various color schemes. Only after deciding on the roof color did Miss West select the colors to harmonize with the roof in the siding, trim and accent colors.

The light, cheerful, carefully-planned kitchens feature modern appliances, gaily-figured wall papers and attractive floor coverings. The handsomely-grained flush doors of hardwood veneer and the carefully-styled cabinets and counter tops are easy to clean and to keep clean. There are no hard-to-get-at corners to collect dirt and grease.

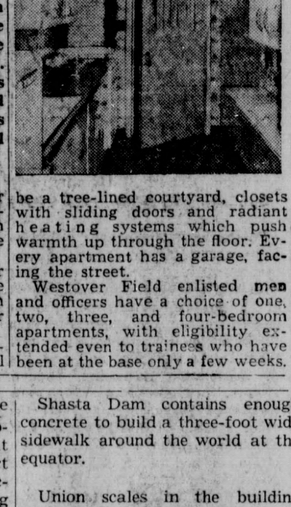
Both inside and out, the accent is on color. A typical color scheme designed by Miss West begins with a medium green asphalt shingle roof. Siding is of a similar shade of green. The trim is a creamy or "warm white" and the accent color, on front and rear doorways, is either coral or banana yellow. Accent colors in other exterior color schemes are rose, cerise, ming and regency.

Miss West says that the color schemes are popular with the wives of servicemen. "They seem to go for the plan which calls for chartreuse accent," she adds.

The barracks have picture windows facing what someday will be a tree-lined courtyard, closets with sliding doors and radiant heating systems which push warmth up through the floor. Every apartment has a garage, facing the street.

Westover Field enlisted men and officers have a choice of one, two, three, and four-bedroom apartments, with eligibility extended even to trainees who have been at the base only a few weeks.

Combining ranch house and colonial design, new barracks at Westover Field, Mass., provide modern, home-like living accommodations for officers, enlisted men and their families. Bright colors are featured inside and out to give individuality to each dwelling unit. Asphalt shingle roofs in five basic colors set the tone for the various color schemes. Hardwood veneer flush doors, as shown in the efficiently planned kitchen, are used exclusively as they are easy to maintain as well as good looking.



BAYSHORE VISITACION VALLEY

By Bernice Hendryx JUniper 4-6449

Fish story of the week: A large party of friends went deep sea fishing over last weekend. Among the party was Phil Hughes, and his son, young Phil. Of course Dad was the expert in the family, so after a few words of expert advice, Dad turned to the serious business of fishing. Yep, you've just about guessed it. Dad came home empty handed, but young Phil displayed a nine pound rock cod to Mom and family.

There will be another Blood Drive in Visitacion Valley on the sixth of June. It will be held at the Community Center, and the hours will be from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Call Ju. 5-9937 to make your appointments. Donations are credited as you specify, either to the armed forces, or to the local bank.

When the last local Blood Drive took place, many of you were down with the flu. As a result, Bayshore made a very poor showing. Now that the sick list isn't so long, we hope you can find the time to drop over to the center on June 6, and donate the blood that is so badly neded.

On June 3, David and Dick Scatena and Frankie Armas will again entertain at Fort Miley Hospital. The Hunters Point Vets are having a birthday party, and the youngsters will provide music for a community sing.

The three youngsters have been entertaining in hospitals now for some time with their accordian music, and are looking forward to an even fuller schedule.

The sympathy of the entire valley is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Schacher, who lost their six months old son last Friday. The baby contracted pneumonia, and passed away Friday evening.

Luncheon Set

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bayshore Fire Dept. gave a luncheon last week for members of the traffic squad of Bayshore School. The luncheon was given on two consecutive days, first to twenty boys and six guests, then to twenty-five girls and four guests. Presents were presented by the Auxiliary to graduating traffic boys.

Last Thursday was closing session of the week day school at the Bayshore Baptist Church. Parents were invited, and the children presented a program.

The Sunday school departmental graduation of the Church will be held on June 5, at 7:30 p.m. The program will be brief but interesting.

While on the subject of the Baptist Church, some of you might have noticed the stacks of lumber that are piled on the lot behind the Church. They bought a surplus building and wrecked it, hoping to use the lumber in the near future for additional rooms for Sunday School classes. There is still the big job of pulling all the nails out of the lumber before it can again be used for building. Until this job can be done, Reverend Widenham has asked that parents with smaller children in the neighborhood be asked to warn their small fry away from there. Those nails can be dangerous, particularly to the smaller children.

Paper Drive

The Cubs had another paper drive last week. Since neighbors have been laying aside their newspapers and magazines for the Cubs, these paper drives are becoming more and more successful. The last drive pulled in what some estimate to be in the neighborhood of four tons of paper.

The money that the Cubs get for this paper is put to good use. It provides the necesary funds for outings for the boys. The next outing is scheduled for June 9. The Cubmaster and parents will accompany the Cubs on a wienie roast at the beach. The theme of this outing is Lost On A Desert Island. Sounds like fun, but the question that immediately pops into my mind is, if you are lost on a desert island, how come you just happened to be carrying all those hot dogs?

Anniversary Set

The Bayshore PTA gave a luncheon last Thursday to the graduating class of the Bayshore Elementary Class.

We have an anniversary that really is an anniversary coming up in Bayshore. Mathew and Louisa Parker, of 414 Rio Verde St., will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on June 3.

The Parkers have been residents of Bayshore since 1926, so they are really old timers here, and widely known. Friends and neighbors are invited to drop in for a cup of tea Sunday, and say hello. Matt tells us that nothing in the way of definite plans have been made to celebrate the occasion, but that he feels that this would be a good time for friends to drop in and catch up on their visiting. Congratulations Matt and Louisa. Your marriage is an example that we all hope to follow.

SM County Adds 79 Employes Next Year

The annual salary ordinance will set up 79 more San Mateo county jobs during the next fiscal year, raising the total number of positions to a record 1095.

The ordinance was adopted early this week by the Board of Supervisors.

William Goggin, county personnel director, said that the new salary ordinance provides for 995 employees, including civil service jobs, unclassified positions and elective officials. However, there will be 100 additional positions set up in the road department, most of them road workers employed on a per-diem basis.

DC Garden Clubers To Discuss Plants

Members and friends of the Daly City Garden Club are urged to attend the Tuesday, June 5, meeting at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the Bungalow Nursery on Hillside Boulevard, Colma. A very pleasant surprise is in store for each and everyone attending.

Guest speakers will be Walter Nessier on "Fuschias and Shade Plants," and Mr. Herb Hopkins on "Roses." Instead of prepared speeches, each topic will be handled by a question and answer period of one-half hour on each.

Any non-member interested in attending may do so by contacting Mrs. Howard Miguel, membership chairman, PLaza 5-5888.

Versatile WHITE for Every Resort Wear Occasion

LIMITED LUGGAGE SPACE is always a problem on What To Take—and "double duty" apparel is the answer.

Because they fill so many needs, nothing is more basic than a white odd coat and a pair of white slacks. John Ericson, who is off for a short rest following the completion of his soon-to-be-released new film "Teresa," shows how it can be done, while he is being pleasantly helped by his lovely date. Here he wears the Palm Beach white coat and white slacks—so dressed, he is ready for any informal evening on ship or shore. He does this by "dressing-up" two sports wear garments with an Oxford cloth, collar attached shirt and neat figured tie.

HE IS READY for almost any active sport, by removing the coat (at far left) and substituting a sport shirt which in this case is one of the new patterned, cool sheer type.

THE WHITE COAT, as worn (at left) with a sheer tartan patterned sport shirt combined with dark colored slacks, is ideal for daytime occasions.

Model Plane Meet Slated July 14, 15

Region Winners Get Trip To Detroit For Finals

In scores of hobby shops and basement workrooms over Northern California this week, model plane builders are feverishly bending over their newest and fleetest creations in preparation for the aproaching Plymouth Model Plane Meet sponsored annually by the Plymouth Dealers of Northern California.

The 1951 meet is scheduled for July 14 and 15. Free flights will be held at the Tracy Municipal Airport on July 14, the control line events at Seals Stadium in San Francisco the following day, July 15.

Valuable tropies will be awarded to winners in the various classes, but the big plum, all-expense paid trips in a private railway car to Detroit to compete in the Fifth International Plymouth Model Plane Contest, is reserved for the ten high point winners. This contest will be held in mid-August and is participated in by hundreds of model plane flyers from every section of the United States and several foreign countries.

The Northern California Plymouth Dealers Model Plane Meet is open to three age groups: freshmen (under 12 years of age); juniors (12 through 15); and seniors (16 through 20). All types of events are scheduled, ranging from endurance events with free flight planes to various control line exhibitions and races including sensational combat flying in which one plane attempts to disable another with its whirring propeller. Newly developed just model planes capable of speeds of nearly 150 miles an hour also will compete.

Necessary entry blanks and full information is obtainable from any Northern California Plymouth dealer. No entry fee is required.

ANGLING ANGLES by old Hi

There's a mighty lot of interest among anglers all over the country in the new glass rods. This is only natural, of course, since everyone wants to know if these rods will perform and last as good as, or better, than bamboo and steel rods.

A reader, Mrs. Paul Daviduke of Hartford, Conn., writes in to ask if a solid glass fly rod is better than one of tubular glass. Well, Old Hi wouldn't say that it is, for the test depends much upon the use to which the rod will be put.

For example, you are going to troll with an outboard motor and use spinners or small plugs, it's wise to use a solid glass rod because it is stiffer, heavier, and has more backbone to withstand the strain. But if you are going to cast with the various light and medium weight fly rod lures, the tubular glas rod will lend more sport since it's lighter and more flexible.

Old Hi can tell you that a tubular glass rod has plenty of tough strength, for he watched a rod section being bent into a smaller circle before breaking than could a bamboo section. It's a fact that tubular glass can undergo strain far beyond any placed on it normally by fish or fishing practices.

Glass rods are more flexible than bamboo of equal proportion, and since plastic impregnated tubular glass rods are unaffected by livable temperatures they do not take on a "set" or curvature from exposure.

"This material," says Bob Pigg of Los Angeles, who originated these rods, "is by equal weight stronger than steel. It isn't indestructible, of course, any more than bamboo or steel, but it will last for an indefinite time."

For most of your trolling, though, and for bait casting, you should wield the "Higlass" solid glass one-piece casting rods that are strong and flexible. Until you have experimented with one of these glass casting rods, in comparison with bamboo and steel, you don't know what the best is in smooth and easy action and real power.

The solid glass salt water rods are proving to be favorites with hundreds of salty anglers, such as the Flounder and Mighty Midget; and the "Glass Caster" surf rod made of tubular glass with 7-foot tip section is bringing great success in casting lures and playing vigorous fish along the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

Yes, there is power and strength enough in solid and hollow glass rods for all types of fresh and salt water fishing, and tests have shown their durability. If, though, you have any questions about these rods, just drop a letter to Old Hi, in care of this newspaper, and they will gladly be answered.

If you are puzzled over what tackle in general, and methods, will serve to give you the finest sport and best catches while you are at lake, stream, or seashore, one of the quickest ways to find out is to write today for your free copies of Old Hi's illustrated booklets called "Fishing For The Millions," "Salt Water Sports Fishing," and "Pacific Coastal Fishing," and put their suggestions into practice.

Colma Club Enters C. Y. O. Semi-Finals

The Colma Holy Angels Juniors advanced to semi-finals of the C.Y.O. League by edging St. Peter's and Paul's Church of San Francisco, 4-3.

Lowel Creighton and Frank Bortoli led the Colma hitting attack with two safeties a piece. Al Lagomarsino and Gerald Bocci, each scoring twice, accounted for Holy Angels' tallies.

Catcher Al Figone caught one of his best games of the season for the locals.

Gelsis Outlast Knights, 10-9

Danger In Adopting Abandoned Fawns

Several examples of the danger of "adopting" apparently abandoned young deer have been cited by the Division of Fish and Game this year to support its perennial warning to California vacationists to "leave young wildlife where you find it."

Records show that one man was killed and several others injured by innocent appearing deer in California last year. The death of a Colusa County vacationer was caused by a four-year-old deer raised in captivity after its adoption as a fawn.

In rescuing two women hikers treed by a maddened Marin County deer for nine hours, one State game warden was painfully injured when the buck charged with lowered antlers.

Reports of unprovoked attacks by "tame" deer are common, State officials claim. Property damage, including ruined gardens, broken fences, and even dented automobiles, may be expected from wildlife foster children.

A possible fine and jail sentence is another by-product of improper possession of fawns, it is noted. State law permits jail sentences up to six months and fines to $500 for the offense.

While the law covers only illegal possession of deer, veteran outdoorsemen also warn of the generally unkown dangers of harboring wild bears, raccoons, beavres, foxes, antelopes, and coyotes.

Harness Racing To Gain 70 Days

MAY 31. (CNS)—The assembly this week passed SB 1814, sponsored by Senator Harry L. Parkman, San Mateo county, which adds 70 days to the state's racing calendar to permit combined harness and quarter horse racing, or harness racing alone.

The measure provides that half the extra racing days will be allotted to Southern California and the other 35 to Northern California tracks.

The measure will clear the way for racing programs on which quarter horse races may be added to harness race cards in order to create more interest in both sports.

GOOD HAND SIGNALS

Letting other drivers know what you want to do allows them an opportunity to give you the space you will need to make your turn or pull over to stop. Failure to signal your intentions makes it harder for other motorists to cooperate in preventing an accident, warns the California State Automobile Association.

MARINE GENERAL'S BIG STICK—When Lieut. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., commanding the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, planned the breakout at Chosin reservoir, Korea, a stateside Marine remarked: "Shep's over there. He'll beat off the Reds with that big stick!"

The Marines got out and declared that Gen. Shepherd's "big stick" had a lot to do with it. He and that stick have been through jungle and ice, mud and coral and thousands of miles of successful campaigning for more than 20 years, having acquired it when he was an officer of the Garde d'Haiti. It is made from dwarf cocoanut palm, is as hard as iron and called a "cocomacaque." Upper left, at Guam airstrip with Admiral Spruance; upper right, slogging through Cape Gloucester's mud, Gen. Shepherd was assistant commander of Marine division in New Britain; lower left, Gen. Shepherd studies map during battle for Okinawa; lower right, with Maj. Gen. Frank E. Master Plan To Open Some Of State's Fishable Coastline To Public Unveiled

A master plan to open up some of California's fishable coastline to the average angler and his family was unveiled this week by the Wildlife Conservation Board.

With more than 85 per cent of the State's 1,130 miles of coastline in private ownership or closed to the public, Consultant Seth Gordon believes that some of the Board's horse-racing proceeds should be used to provide access areas for fishing, swimming, waterfowl hunting, and other recreational uses.

In a 34-page report to the three-man Board, Gordon and Field Representative C. R. Knight, Jr., recommended the acquisition of 121 units in 12 coastal counties. Land to be purchased by the State would amount to about 450 acres, but would provide public access to many miles of shoreline recreational areas.

Cost of the program was estimated at between $300,000 and $400,000. This sum would cover purchase of land for rights-of-way, easements, parking facilities, and would allow for possible increases in land values.

Blueprint Takes 2 Years

The comprehensive blueprint for a series of free oceanside parks was two years in the making. It was compiled from reports of sportsmen, chambers of commerce, and personnel of the Division of Fish and Game.

Financing of the program, the report indicated, would have to come from future dips into State pari-mutuel funds by the Legislature. The Board's original $9,000,000 fund, voted by the Legislature in 1947, has been exhausted in the purchase of new fish hatcheries, game farms, waterfowl management areas, and other capital construction projects operated by the Division of Fish and Game.

The possibility that county and local governments may be willing to maintain the access areas was indicated by Gordon. He said that the proposed master plan will be coordinated with operations of the State Division of Beaches and Parks if the program is approved by the Board and the Legislature.

"The need for recreational facilities is fast becoming an increasingly serious problem," Gordon asserted. "Unless heroic measures are taken quickly it may forever be too late."

"The beaches "to the high-tide line" belong to all the people of California. But unless they have access to them, the heritage that belongs to all will be monopolized by the few."

12 S.M. County Projects

By counties, the number of projects recommended:

San Diego, 10; Orange, 4; Los Angeles, 8; Santa Barbara, 13; San Luis Obispo, 12; Monterey, 11; Santa Cruz, 7; SAN MATEO, 12; Sonoma, 11; Mendocino, 12; Humboldt, 14; Del Norte, 7.

The survey found that the counties of Ventura and San Francisco had taken care of their shoreline recreational needs so well that State aid at this time is unecessary, Gordon stated.

The illustrated report has been printed by the State Senate Interim Committee on Fish and Game. Free copies are available by writing the Public Information Section, Division of Fish and Game, Ferry Building, San Francisco.

From A Corner

By Bill Katz

Man, by nature a gregarious animal, appears to be about fed up with his fellow man.

We base this conclusion of a startling report by the United States Bureau of Statistics. The most prevalent illness in the country today is neither cancer nor heart trouble, but nervous breakdowns. Worry is the primary reason behind the condition which annually sends millions to hospitals for mental treatment.

Now worry is a mighty broad word covering everything from getting into a stew over bad TV reception to wondering when the next Atom bomb is going to fall.

Most worry arises from a condition known to Greeks and moderns as "civilization." While there are records of mental illness in the caves and the broad expanses of land not covered by plumbing and singing commercials, the number of nervous breakdown cases are few.

It would appear that the ratio of psychiatrists to laymen increases with the amount of civilization per square foot in any given area. You note we don't say people. The population of China and India, for example, is fare larger than the western countries; but a man intent on looking for the bare necessities of life hasn't time for a nervous breakdown.

While we are not scientists or psychiatrists we believe the solution to most mental conditions can be found in the simple process of relaxation. We also believe that few men can relax when surrounded by their fellow men, especially in the environment of a night club where everyone is hysterically trying to convince himself he is having a good time.

Were it possible, for example, to allow every family a good half acre and plenty of room to move around relaxation might be something more than a word. We don't believe any man can be himself when he's within hearing or seeing distance of another man.

All of which leads us to the conclusion that the best place to go on a vacation is not a city, but the wide open spaces. This year, if you're taut and nervous try a trip to the desert or the backcountry of Idaho or Montana. Get away from your fellow man, get away from hot water bottles and friends.

We believe if every man and woman in this country could be given two weeks alone with nature the number of mental hospitals would be cut in half. What do you think?

We've Been Wondering:

When are they going to get around to changing the population figures on the signs introducing travelers to Daly City? The white plaques on Skyline, Mission and The Coastside Highway still read 11,200 population.

When are they going to fix the intersection of North Parkview and Junipero Serra Boulevard? The way the street jogs and bumps it is an invitation to have new springs every time you go over the street at more than one mile an hour.

When are they going to clean up the sidewalk at Mission and Hillside Boulevard? It's hard to tell where the quarry starts and the sidewalk ends.

TALK OF THE TOWN

By DIANE DALY

With the serious turn of events taking place not only in Korea, but many other Eastern trouble spots, it is becoming increasingly clear that the Civilian Defense program must have not only the backing of the local citizenry, but the individual participation of the majority. This is somewhat of a change since the last C.D. set-up, when the load was carried by the vigilant few volunteers.

Atomic warfare very abruptly shuts off the immediate aid we have all been used to in times of emergency—Survival will depend mostly on self-help, and intelligent reaction must be trained into our minds so thoroughly that faced with disaster, we might retain enough sense to know the things we must not do, at the very least.

Living on the outskirts of a great metropolis, we must know what to do in case of a mass migration through our town. As in the early days of the fire, homes would have to be opened to those without shelter. These and many other myriad problems should be gone into thoroughly and renewed often enough to keep citizens informed so they can help themselves. I fervently hope and pray we may never need to use the knowledge but as the saying goes —"To be forewarned is to be forearmed."

City Manager Dan Andersen has already appointed deputies who will build a framework representing the all over strategy, and designed for the co-ordinated efforts of the individual . You are a part of it, and it will only be as strong as the weakest bolt, so when the call comes for a meeting—don't "let George do it" He will be too busy saving himself to bother about you.

FEARLESS FAGIN'S:

The San Mateo Council of the Lion's Club, recognizing a civic responsibility and fulfilling a worthwhile endeavor, is sponsoring a ball team, comprised of U. S. Navy recruits from Moffatt Field. Th eouncil collected a sizable sum for equipment and fees, and the boy will soon be playing in the Series B sandlot games.

TRIP TEASER:

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hunter, 438 Crocker Ave., returned recently from a trip to Salt Lake City, reporting gorgeous weather, beautiful scenery and an interesting tour—but the return trip rather a hazardous one when their train developed "trouble"—The kind you shudder about when you think of.

The locale being the Santa Barbara Biltmore Hotel. An enjoyable time was also had on the Daylight with groups renewing old acquaintances and enjoying the superlative scenery and luxurious travel facilities.

SPANISH CLUB AT ADOBE LODGE:

Adobe Creek Lodge, located in the beautiful hills of Los Altos, one hour's drive to the south, was the destination of Jeff's Spanish Club outing on Wednesday, which proved such a success. Several hundred persons made up the group with parents and faculty members included. Swimming and dancing got the bid of the young set ,colorful in their play cottons and denims and jeans, and a steak barbecue climaxed the grand affair. Mr. Howard Miguel, popular and energetic Spanish teacher, with his wife, hosted, with baby daughter, Pamela, cooing her approval.

SENIOR PROM, JEFF HIGH:

Friday evening, June 1, will be an unforgettable night for the 70 "sweet girl graduates," and some 50 young men graduates who will mark the occasion of their commencement at the formal Senior Ball. Carol Davies and Susannah Wilson, co-chairmen of this year's Ball, reveal that the young men graduates will wear white dinner jackets, and the girls will wear pastels in formal or ballerina length. Many guests are expected to be on hand as well as the plentiful school alumnae from this area. It will begin at 8:30 with the traditional finale at 11:30.

STILL IN CIRCULATION:

Since Dr. Marie Bonfilio opened her new office in Daly City, at 7394 Mission St., a change has been made in The Record office. Mrs. Alice McLaughlin, who has been nursing a telephone in the Circulation Dept. resigned recently to take over duties as office nurse to Dr. Bonfilio, a position for which her previous nurses training will stand her in good stead. Best wishes to her in her new venture. She will replace Alice Bacciocco, who recently moved to San Carlos.

Girl Scouts Spend Week-End On Russian River

Girl Scout Troop 19 left Friday afternoon, May 25, to spend a wonderful weekend in Monte Rio on the Russian River.

They stayed at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Armond Moulia. Nancy Hopper, Charlene Van Vleit, Cheryl Taylor, Laverne Nannini, Carol Bruce, Carol Hansen, Bonnie Randol, Beverly High, Nancy Golladay, Jane Niblock, Robin Hatfield Jill Dougherty, Marie Perdue, Edith Detweiler, and Joyce Shanoian were accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Bruce, troop leader, and her sister Mrs. Moulia, Mrs. Mildred Hansen and Mrs. Belva Tompkin assistant leaders, and Mrs. Shirley Mayfield, water safety instructor.

The girls cooked all the food out of doors and it was delicious! Their program also included two swimming parties, an unsuccessful attempt at fishing, a session of modeling natural clay from the river bank, an impromptu amateur contest (won by Charlene VanVleit, who sang "I Can't Get Off Of My Horse"), and was climaxed by a stirring "Scouts Own" Ceremony Sunday.

Some of the girls took snapshots that will keep alive the memory of the very happy time and a great experience in Girl Scouting.

Apache Trail, which winds through gorgeous mountain scenery from Globe to Apache Junction in Arizona, is reported by the National Automobile Club to have been at one time the dark and bloody stalking ground of the Apaches.

Woodrow Wilson Teacher Writes Of Some Problems

"GRADE FOUR AND ITS PROBLEMS"

Yes, that is the way it might appear! When one gets into Grade Four, many things are new, and consequently hard, because of unfamiliarity! However, if the student brings an alert mind, and hearty attention with him, all will be well. An interest in real achievement will show to great advantage here.

One of the bugbears of this grade is our old friend, the Times Table! It must be mastered! As the famous Paderewski said, regarding the technique of being a pianist, "You must be a slave, before you can be a master." How true this is of the Times Table! Work every day with mind and heart, be a slave, if you will, and lo suddenly you are master! Then indeed will problem solving become a game. Counting on fingers is a hazard, where speed and accuracy are a necessary foundation for future development. Finding 29 on fingers, when 30 is the answer, is not very practical.

Fractions? They can be a game, also. But finding that 2 minus ¾ is a "hole and three gotre" is not efficient arithmetic. Digits are much more effective!

Reading quickly for facts is hard for the new Grade Four pupil. Looking through the encylopedia is fun, when there are lot of colored plates. We all like to do that. But when one is hunting for the kinds of foods used by certain people, for instance, or some other neded piece of information, we must learn to put off the fun until a leisure time. Getting some information neatly and properly jotted down is a problem, too. This is necessary for our future scholastic achievement. Drawing sketches is one of the many sidelines used to advantage, but using all the colors in a new shiny box of crayons will not add to the value. Trimming like house paint, look wonderful, but are not so much needed on the foundation.

Who said "Phonics"? Yes, grade four needs them—really needs them! Spelling "glass, first, expect, pleasant," this way—"frist, galss, epeckeat, pelesnt" does not make for competency.

A Short Story

REMOTE CONTROL

By Will Lozier

MRS. CECELIA COOPER, president of Lonely Hearts, Inc., had been in business long enough to be thoroughly experienced. One look at her newest client told her almost all she needed to know.

"Will you let me have your name, please?" Mrs. Cooper said.

"Sally Vance."

"And your telephone number?"

"Circle 9119."

Mrs. Cooper selected an unused 4x6 index card and wrote: Sally Vance, Circle 9119. Age, about twenty-two. Height, five feet-three. Weight, 110. Violet eyes, black hair with a lovely little streak of auburn down the middle, a nice little nose with a freckle on the left side and, Mrs. Cooper decided, she probably has dimples when she smiles.

Sally looked up now with wide eyes which proved that the president of Lonely Hearts, Inc., had been right about the dimples.

"Tell me about it," Mrs. Cooper said.

Sally twisted her handkerchief into a tiny knot.

"I think I'm going to cry," she said.

"Might be a good idea," Mrs. Coper said sympathetically.

After Sally got through crying Mrs. Cooper said, "My dear, I specialize in introductions, consultations, and advice. Unless I'm badly mistaken, you don't need to be introduced to anybody, so suppose you start by telling me his name."

"Maybe I shouldn't have come," Sally said. She opened her purse and took out a twenty dollar bill. "I'll have to save out enough to get back to Larkville."

Mrs. Cooper closed Sally's small fist around the money and said, "I'll send you a statement—someday."

This girl was not the usual type of client. Most of Mrs. Cooper's customers wanted mail order romance and were willing to pay for it, a situation which a good business executive would naturally take advantage of. But Sally Vance was so pretty and helpless and appealing that Mrs. Cooper had decided to help the moment the girl entered the office.

"It's awfully hard to tell you about it," Sally was saying, "but I guess I'll have to."

"Yes?"

"His name is Case Peters and he lives in Larkville, too," Sally went on. "I just couldn't stand him any longer so I came to New York and now my money's almost gone and I've got to go back home."

"I've heard," Mrs. Cooper murmured, "that Larkville is a very nice little town."

"Oh, it is," Sally said enthusiastically, "but everybody knew I was crazy about Case and they got to laughing at me and so I ran away."

"You did exactly right," Mrs. Cooper said unexpectedly. "Men don't have good sense. They don't know what they want till they lose it."

"But Case never lost me," Sally said.

"He thinks he has, which amouts to the same thing," Mrs. Cooper state firmly.

"I've been a little fool," Sally said. "I'm positive Case loves me just as much as I love him only I should have made him admit it."

Mrs. Cooper tilted back in her chair and gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling. Then she reached over and patted Sally's hand reassuringly.

"Now, I'll tell you what you must do: you go back to your rooming house or wherever you're staying, and wait until you hear from me."

"But I told you," Sally said almost angrily, "I have barely enough money to get home."

"That," stated Mrs. Cooper, "doesn't make a particle of difference. I've got to have time to think this over; then I'll call you and we'll decide what to do next." She glanced down at her memo pad. "I want to be sure I've got that telephone number right."

"Circle 9119," Sally said.

Mrs. Cooper escorted her client out of the office, came immediately back to her desk, and thumbed through the index file until she came to a card marked Case Peters. According to the record, Mr. Peters wanted to meet a girl who was about twenty-two, and who had violet eyes and black hair with a tiny streak of auburn down the middle. He also preferred that she have a freckle on her nose and dimples in her cheeks when she smiled. Mrs. Cooper removed the card from the file and pressed the buzzer for her secretary.

"Take a letter to Mr. Case Peters, Larkville, Vermont."

Three days later Mrs. Cooper picked up her telephone and dialed Circle 9119. A woman with a nice young voice answered the phone.

"I'd like to speak to Miss Sally Vance," Mrs. Cooper said.

"Sorry," the nice young voice said, "but Sally got married yesterday and went back to Vermont. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"No, thanks," Mrs. Cooper said. "That's all I wanted to know.

12th District CCPT

Special Study of San Mateo County School Facilities Now Offered

A rich heritage of regional and historic data is being shared with all who attend the special study of San Mateo county school facilities now in progress.

Through cooperation of the San Mateo Junior College adult center, office of the county superintendent of schools, and Seventeenth District California Congress of Parents and Teachers the information is clarified by graphs, lectures and and tours.

Final opportunity this term for the course is offered at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and Friday, June 6 and 8, on the Junior College Delaware campus. Room 215 of the Science building will be the scene of the last lecture, while the concluding tour will cover the southern section of the county from Belmont to Menlo Park. Nosebag lunches should be provided by the tourists.

Facts Will Out

Facts and figures have been compiled by Robert Moore of Redwood City, safety chairman and tour commentator, who relates numerous little known stories about each district. All school neighborhoods, whether in urban areas or on rural roads, have the "School Zone" sign warning motorists to drive with caution. It is notable that most San Mateo county schools proudly fly the green safety banner just below the Bear flag.

Family Day Scout Picnic Set

The Family Picnic for Boy Scout Troop No. 249 has been scheduled for Sunday, June 3, 1951, in the San Mateo Memorial State Park (6 miles past La Honda).

The troop will provide coffee for the adults and ice cream for the children. However each family must furnish their own lunch.

George Neuner, corresponding secretary, requests all persons who plan to attend, need further information or lack transportation, telephone him at JU. 7-6712.

Plan to participate in the Family Day Picnic providing you an opportunity to meet your son's friends and their parents.

Pastor of the Week

Rev. Gilbert Bellshaw

Rev. Gilbert Bellshaw, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, is a native of Scotland, where he received his formal education. He came to the United States in 1923 and studied at the Bible Institute in Providence, Rhode Island. Later studies were made at the Dallas Theological Seminary in Texas and at the Bible Institute in Los Angeles, where Rev. Bellshaw received his doctorate.

Rev. Bellshaw has spent 13 years in evangelistic work, singing and song reading throughout the eastern United States and, in 1936, became associate pastor of the First Baptist church in Richmond, coming here from the cross-bay community in 1939.

He and Mrs. Bellshaw and their youngest son, William, reside at 52 Rice street in San Francisco. An older son, John, is now studying at the Dallas Seminary which his younger brother plans to enter this fall.

The Bellshaws only recently returned from an European trip.

Sermonette of the Week

"GIVE GOD A CHANCE"

By

Rev. Richard Bellshaw

Pastor

Calvary Baptist Church

"There are altogether too many Americans these days who are living in a state of acute apprehension."

So writes Paul Hutchinson, editor of the Christian Century, after an observant trip across the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In this trip, he conversed with a great many people of various occupations in order to obtain a cross section of thinking in our present day.

The editor went on to say, "And now I wish to report a growing misgiving. I think the American people, taking them as a whole and allowing for plenty of individual exceptions, are in a distressing mental condition... Europeans used to twit us about our unconquerable optimism, but an observer finds very little of that left nowadays. Confidence is the one commodity most of the Americans you meet in a trip of this kind seem to be 'fresh out of'."

Hutchinson then went on to describe the various forms in which our fears are manifested.

In the course of a recent address, a speaker listed five "Paradoxes of Progress."

1—Moral progress surpassed by physical and mechanical progress.
2—Increased longevity and quicker methods of killing.
3—Economic internationalism and political nationalism.
4—More protection but less security.
5—Improved means for unimproved ends.

Surely, we live in an age fairly bristling with problems!

Where could we find a better description of our modern day than the prophetic words of Christ, uttered centuries ago—"Distress of nations with perplexity?"

Someone asks, "What is wrong with the world," or better, "What about a solution?"

Evervone is discussing commercial problems. Yet none of these nor all of them combined constitute the real problem. They are but surface symptoms of a deep-seated malady.

The world's problem is this: Men do not know the God who made them.

John 1:10, He was in the world, and the world was made by Him and the world knew Him not. Could anything be more tragic?

Man, made in his likeness, capable of entering into His thoughts and enjoying fellowship with Him—yet so engulfed in moral and spiritual darkness as not to know Him, living consequently, as if he did not exist.

Roger Babson stated some years ago, "We cannot progress farther materially until we catch up spiritually." How true!

These be our Gods!" cried an ancient people before an image of gold fashioned by their own hands. But they soon discovered this to be a poor substitute for the True and Living God.

Perhaps from our perplex problems some good may emerge. We may yet learn the secret of peace in the midst of turmoil. We may yet learn how futile and meaningless life is apart from God. This may lead us to give Him a place in our hearts and our affairs.

For He said, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed upon Thee because he trusteth in Thee."

We may come to value more highly the blessings which come from Christ our Savior and Lord who said, "I am come that ye might have life and that ye might have it more abundantly."

Calvary Baptist Church

The Calvary Baptist church, now located at the junction of Morse and Mission streets, is a tribute to the organizational efficiency and moving spirit of Dr. Gilbert Bellshaw, who has been pastor of the church here since 1939.

The church was formerly located in a building on Mission street, about three blocks from its present location and, when Dr. Bellshaw came to it in 1939, numbered about 30 members. Today, the congregation exceeds 450.

The present building was erected in 1940 and in 1945 an addition was made to the north wing. Newly acquired is the property to the north on which further expansion is being planned.

State Soon Takes Over SM Toll Bridge

MAY 31. (CNS)—The California Toll Bridge Authority this week voted to acquire the Dumbarton and San Mateo-Hayward Toll Bridges spanning southern San Francisco Bay for $8,250,000.

The action was taken after State Highway Engineer George T. McCoy said he had made an inspection of both spans and it will take approximately $760,000 to place the San Mateo-Hayward span in good condition.

The authority delayed action to allow McCoy two weeks to make the inspection which he advised should be made prior to purchase.

McCoy told the authority that concrete on the bridge had deteriorated faster than had been expected, but by taking steps to place the bridge immediately under repair, further deterioration would be halted.

Repairs to the Dumbarton bridge, McCoy said, would amount to $228,000. All repairs would be financed from the state highway users tax fund, and would be repaid from bridge tolls at an early date.

Bridge traffic, the authority was told, had increased 10 per cent on the San Mateo-Hayward span, and 15 per cent on Dumbarton. This increase was higher than anticipated.

The state will pay $6,000,000 for the San Mateo Hayward bridge and $2,250,000 for the Dumbarton crossing.

Awards Presented At Pack 84 Meet

The presentation of awards highlighted the cub-scout Pack 84 meeting at the Broadmoor Community Center Thursday, May 24.

Den 5, under the leadership of Wanda Milani, was host of the evening.

A Bobcat Badge went to Darrell Myles, while Ed Heskett, Gregory Wauth, James Heick, Webby Parker and Tim Buckley received Wolf Badges.

Bear badges went to Ronald Rose, Neil Cabrinha, Rich Gomez, Dennis Baird and Bob Nolly.

Lion Badges were awarded to Dick Tomlinson, Rich Schweitzer, Bill Spry and Richard Drake.

Dick Tomlinson, Webby Parker, Dennis Baird and John Avanzino received Golden Arrows, and Ronald Brandstetter, Rod Chisholm, Webby Parker, Scot Parker, Dennis Baird, John Avanzino, Jim Gustafson, and Dick Tomlinson got Silver Arrows.

One Year Service Stars went to Bob Nolly, Dick Hendersen, John Skoverski, Ronald Wald and Ronald Rose.

A Weblos ceremony was given for Richard Drake who is graduating from cubs to scouts.

Skits were presented by Dens 2, 4 and 5. Den 2 portrayed hillbillies, 4 Mexican sharpshooters, and 5 presented a fashion show on what well dressed women wear.

The cubs of Broadmoor will stage a paper drive June 2 and 16. To make the drive a success, the utmost cooperation of all the residents in Broadmoor is urged.

Dan Anderson presented the awards for the Spring Festival Parade to the pack. It received a gold cup for first in marching, and a gold ribbon for the largest marching group.

Kennelly entered the Naval service in January, 1948.

Anglers May Get Break On Coast

MAY 24. (CNS)—Acquisition of 121 coastal areas, including 12 in San Mateo, and 12 in Marin, to open more waters to California anglers has been recommended to a senate interim committee.

The acquisitions have been suggested in a 34-page report containing a master plan by the wildlife conservation board which was issued by the senate interim committee on recreation and wild life conservation.

Land to be purchased by the state would be approximately 450 acres and would provide access to many miles of shoreline recreational areas. Cost of the program, it is estimated, would be from $300,000 to $400,000.

The financing would be provided from future "takes" by the legislature from the state's pari mutuel fund. The original $9,000,000 provided by the legislature for the conservation board has been exhausted.

The board contends that all shore line is the property of the people of California but, to have access, some rights of way must be acquired. More than 85 per cent of property along the 1,130 miles of California coast is privately owned and under present conditions is closed to the public.

Cerebral Palsy Drive Continues

San Francisco headquarters for the 1951 United Cerebral Palsy campaign today reported that their drive for funds has been proceeding satisfactorily.

Postmaster John F. Fixa, local campaign chairman, urged the continued support of the campaign so that the $70,000 drive quota may be reached.

Mr. Fixa added that those who were unable to participate in the recent "porch light" campaign conducted by the letter carriers on their off-duty hours, may send their contributions directly to: Cerebral Palsy, 1151 Market Street, San Francisco 3, Calif.

SAROYAN REMINDED ME

by Ridgely Cummings

Hollywood has a number of writers' groups and lately I've been investigating some of them. The other Sunday afternoon I went to a meeting of the Writers Round Table.

The man who greeted me at the door turned out to be a concert singer. I didn't catch his name but he caught mine and introduced me to the round table president, Mrs. Jaime Palmer.

She in turn introduced me to Carroll Righter, the speaker of the day, and several others.

I was seated between a real estate salesman who said he had always wanted to write but never found time and an aeronautical engineer who explained he was present because he was interested in astrology.

The topic of Mr. Righter's lecture was: "The World Today—Astrologically."

Astrology

Perhaps some of my readers believe in astrology and I don't want to hurt their feelings, but to be honest I can't remember when I ever listened to so much nonsense presented with such seriousness.

Mr. Righter has a daily column in the Los Angeles Times on astrology, which technically makes him a writer.

He explained that we were entering an "Aquarian" age and could expect tension and trouble for the next few years because of the unfriendly juxtaposition of the planets.

The Truman-MacArthur fracas was due, he said, to the relative positions of Jupiter and Saturn. Mr. Righter must be a Republican for he made it plain that he identified MacArthur with Jupiter and Truman with Saturn, although from his definitions it could well have been the other way around. Jupiter stood for leader and Saturn for age.

I seemed to remember that the General was older than the President and both were leaders, but it seemed impolite to point this out.

Big Names

Mr. Righter dropped many big names and I gathered that Tyrone Power and Linda Christian were numbered among his clients, as well as other Hollywood celebrities who consult him before they give an interview or buy a new car.

Favorable arrangements of the stars were also extremely useful in securing airplane reservations, he said, and gave us some examples from his own experience.

After the talk we adjourned to another large room for tea and cookies. Here I met an actress, a gardener, a woman from San Francisco who had actually read one of these columns, a scientist and finally a writer.

The writer, a middle-aged Englishwoman who specialized in children's books, and I adjourned to a corner and talked shop.

Confession

In the course of our conversation she asked if I had read William Saroyan's preface to his new volume of short stories. I confessed I had not and she told me where to get it.

Now I have read it. It is titled "The Pure and the Simple" and appears in the Writer's Year Book, obtainable on news stands for four bits.

Reading Saroyan's advice has made my afternoon with astrology and Hollywood writers a great success.

Says Saroyan in essence: write what you want to write and never mind the editors.

Best Chance

"A writer's best chance of getting work done and making a living at the same time is apt to be in doing work he can't help doing, no matter how easily it may seem to be resisted by magazine editors."

I had planned to write a magazine story today, something that would be light and amusing and bring me in a nice fat check. But Saroyan reminded me. It would be hard work to write such a story and writers should write what they want to write, not what is work for them.

What I really wanted to write is what you have just read.

Broadmoor Legion Picnic Slated Sunday, June 10

There are still a few tickets left for the Broadmoor Legion summer picnic at Shaggri-La.

There are only accommodations for two hundred adults, so be sure to get yours by calling either Ray Flanagan or Ray Logan at PLaza 5-4556 or PLaza 5-3649.

Remember—all you can eat and drink. Steaks will be served for a nominal price, too. The regular meal will include hot dogs, pork and beans, potato salad and all the trimmings. There will be ten kegs of beer, soda pop for the youngsters.

A baseball game is scheduled for two o'clock for the adults and races for the youngsters at three. Swimming all the time in a wonderful outdoor pool that is safe for the small ones. Dancing from four to nine and folk dancing for those who want it.

For a time you'll remember, remember the time—Sunday, June 10, from 8 in the morning till (?) Sunday nite.

WEEDS AND GRASS can be prevented from growing in between bricks in walks if you pour crank case oil over them two or three times a season.

A lovely finish for unpainted furniture consists of sanding the wood first, then applying a coat of shellac and sanding. Repeat sanding and apply a second coat of shellac. Sand again and apply a softly finished varnish.

Before driving a nail into plaster, hold the nail in hot water for a few minutes before pounding it into the wall.

When hanging pictures and mirrors, place two strips of cellophane tape in a cross on the wall before driving the nail in. It goes in smoothly and does not destroy the plaster.

If you have bricks around the fireplace, brighten them by scrubbing with hot soapsuds. Then coat with hot oil applied with a paint brush.

Gilt picture frames can be cleaned by rubbing very gently with a weak solution of ammonia and water. Repeat, if necessary. Dry by patting with a very soft cloth.

If you nail a few pieces of rubber to the bottom of a step stool or a ladder, this will prevent it from slipping.

New houses and rooms which are subject to dampness can be helped to dry quickly if you place some blocks of camphor ice in the corners.

When you paint ceilings and woodwork which is overhead, prevent the paint from dripping by cutting a rubber ball in half, making a hole in it and pushing on the handle of the paint brush, as close to the bristles as possible. This will catch any excess paint.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Tomato Juice Cocktail
(Serves 6-8)

1 quart tomato juice
2 branches celery, cut in 2-inch pieces
4 thin slices onion
12 cardamon seeds, crushed
2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Combine tomato juice, celery, onion and cardamon seeds in saucepan. Cover and heat to boiling point. Simmer 3 minutes. Strain and chill. Just before serving, add the lemon juice.

WATCH FOR POSTED SPEED LIMIT

When driving into areas with which you are not familiar be on the lookout for posted speed limits, advises the National Automobile Club. City limits are posted plainly, and by expecting them and then obeying the posted speed, you can often avoid embarrassment and perhaps delay in a strange city.

The Institute of Forest Genetics in El Dorado County was established in 1925 by a Seattle lumberman, James G. Eddy, and turned over to the Federal Government in 1935.

Scheelite is the principal tungsten ore mineral in California.

California vineyards produce 15 per cent of the world's table grapes.

Try using a little courtesy the next time you are driving on the highway, advises the National Automobile Club. You will find that using a little courtesy will go a long way to keeping you safe.

Cancer Drive Reaches Goal

Judge Murray Draper announced today that the 1951 Fund Raising Drive for San Mateo County Branch of the American Cancer Society has now gone "over the top." 6883 families have donated $36,217.59 which is 134 per cent of our quota.

Everyone of these families has received life-saving information about Cancer. In this, our first house to house campaign, we tried to reach every home in the county with educational pamphlets. By far the greater amount of money was collected in small amounts by hundreds of devoted workers. One outstanding exception was a check from Mr. William P. Kyne for $1,000.00 as our share of his annual donation to charity from the Bay Meadows Race Track.

Judge Draper expressed his deepest appreciation of the generous help of both radio stations and newspapers of the County, which contributed largely to the success of the drive.

Milk Production Up In California

MAY 31. (CNS)—Milk production in California during February, the month in which the latest survey was completed by the State Department of Agriculture, showed a gain over the same month in 1949 and 1950, increasing 2.3 per cent.

The department report showed that in San Mateo county, production totaled 49,000 pounds of market milk, and 4,000 pounds of manufacturing milk.

Market milk during February was up 4.1 per cent and manufacturing milk down 1.6 per cent, the overall increase being 2.3 percent.

Heavy gains in production were reported in the San Joaquin valley and southern California, the latter being the second most important milk producing area in the state. production in the south was up ten per cent and in the San Joaquin valley, leader in milk production, the increase was seven per cent.

The survey noted that only 247,000 were unemployed last February against double that number in February, 1950, and this has contributed to increased milk consumption.

SAFE STOPPING

It takes approximately one hundred and ninety feet to stop a car that is traveling at fifty miles per hour, points out the National Automobile Club. This is a figure to remember the next time you start feeling that you can "stop 'er on a dime!"

Take A Pointer

Although the world laughs with and at Eve Arden's cavortings on her Sunday CBS "Our Miss Brooks' show, her many outside activities show up the more serious side of her nature. This month, Hollywood's number one comedienne Eve became chairman of "National Non-Sectarian Sunday School Week," a concentrated effort to encourage children of all faiths to attend Sunday School. Because of her deep understanding of human nature and her popularity, Eve "rings the bell" with adults and children in her many public service appeals.

Racing dogs and drivers from all parts of North America participate in Truckee's annual Sierra Dog Derby.

Grace Church Holds Children's Day

The Children's Day program of the Grace Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday, June 3, at 11 a.m.

There theme will be "This Is Our Church," and every department in the Sunday School will be taking part.

Legislator Says He Doesn't Give A D.... For McLain; But Votes In His Favor

MAY 31. (CNS)—Three employees of "Gorgeous George" McLain, Los Angeles pension promoter, won legislative advocate credentials from the state senate today, following a hearing of the senate lobby committee headed by Senator F. Presley Abshire, of Sonoma county.

They are John C. Henderson, Roberta Johnson, and Elizabeth Murphy, representing the California Institute of Social Welfare.

The credentials were granted after a lengthy hearing, which McLain himself attended during the morning, but failed to appear during the afternoon. The hearing dwelt on the character and integrity of the three McLain employees.

His attorney, John Brannley, of Sacramento, said the pension promoter was "writing a radio script and preparing to make a radio address," thereby being unavailable for the hearing, which he requested.

On motion of Senator Burt Busch, Lake County, the committee continued the hearing insofar as McLain and Eleanor V. Jackson, Los Angeles attorney, were concerned. Miss Jackson, Brannley said, was on a case and unable to appear.

Senator George Miller, Contra Costa county, testified as to the integrity of Mrs. Johnson, who formerly was his secretary.

"Personally," said Miller, "I don't give a damn who represents McLain. I dislike him and have no use for his tactics, but unfortunately I find myself at times being forced to vote for legislation he advocates. But I do not believe the right of these people to make a living should be denied them by this committee."

It was immediately after Miller's statement that Senator James J. McBride, of Ventura, moved to grant the three representatives their legislative advocates' cards. The motion was carried unanimously.

The action of the committee places McLain in somewhat the same position as Arthur Samish, much publicized liquor lobbyist. The committee has denied Samish credentials as a lobbyist, but has granted them to Frank X. Flynn, Samish employee at least last session, who represents the wholesale liquor distributors of Northern California, and the Southern California Spirits Foundation.

Flynn is entitled to full lobbying privileges, while Samish is not permitted to appear before committees. Likewise, McLain does not have credentials, but three of his employees are now permitted to appear before senate committees.

The McLain group has lobbying credentials for the assembly.

Local Man Bombs Without Plane

Participating in an aerial bombing mission without an airplane sounds impossible, but Raymond M. Cayla, Jr., aviation chief structural mechanic, U.S.N., of 169 East Vista Drive, did just that . . . and never left the ground.

He recently completed a night vision course at the Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif. Night vision is important to lookouts, and flyers for defense and safety.

As they sat in blacked-out rooms, trained instructors explained how the human eye works under light and dark conditions. Soon the men were able to distinguish silhouettes of model buildings, towers and other landmarks that should be familiar to pilots on a night flight, or to lokouts on a ship.

Near the end of the course, they took seats on a high balcony and underwent a simulated mission over an "enemy" city at night to locate the target area.

On the committee are Helen Naish, Marinna Pecchia, Cathy Lowry, Evelyn Cunningham, and Ellen Sweeney for the Y.L.I., and Bob Frush, Larry Quinn, Bob Payne, John Hannan and Al Davis for Y.M.I.

Doctors Give Funds For Bank

Robert L. Wood, executive secretary of the San Mateo County Medical Society, in releasing report of Thomas F. Conroy, M.D., chairman of the San Mateo County Blood Bank Building Fund Drive for the Medical Society, announced that the members of the medical profession in San Mateo County are averaging nearly $100 per member to date in support of the current drive for funds for the new Blood Bank Building.

Mr. Wood Stated, "The 273 physicians and surgeons of the county annually donate approximately $500,000 in service performed at the San Mateo County Community Hospital, and the financial support of the Blood Bank Building Fund Drive, backed by a prior unanimous endorsement of the Drive by members of the Society, is in line with the community spirited policy of the group."

Mr. Wood further stated, "Although the doctors of the county derive no financial benefit from the Blood Bank, they are fully and gratefully aware of the number of lives saved annually through having at hand a constant supply of blood provided by the unique service of the Blood Bank. The San Mateo Blood Bank which is operated independently of any faction, organization or group on a non-profit basis, is known as one of the most efficient in the United States."

Eagles To Study Juvenile Problems

Resolutions tending to curb the juvenile delinquency problem in California will be presented at the Fraternal Order of Eagles state convention, scheduled in Santa Barbara on June 22nd, 23rd and 24th, according to a statement issued this week by Eddie E. Johnston of Glendale, state president of the fraternity.

"The resources and energies of 194 Eagle lodges in California, representing a membership of over 100,000, will be concentrated on solving juvenile delinquency by continuance of Eagle sponsored Youth Institutes where juvenile problems will be discussed by leading authorities," Johnston declared.

Other resolutions for the promotion of child health, including sponsorship by the Eagle lodges of baby clinics for the free examination of children of pre-school age and for giving advice to parents, are also scheduled for special consideration, he stated.

The three day convention will attract delegates from all parts of the state. At the same time the California Women's Eagle auxiliary, representing 102 units with a membership of 30,000, will hold their conclave.

KEEP SUPPLY NORMAL

If provision is made for carrying spare headlight fuses, the supply should be replenished as rapidly as the spares are used, according to the National Automobile Club. The supply, otherwise, may become exhausted just at the wrong time.

San Francisco's Municipal Railway cable car lines earn the highest gross revenue per mile of any of the city's lines.
